Favors 'Vigilant De- fense' of French Interests

ASKS SUPPORT

Cabinet Stakes Life in French Chamber of Deputies

Paris—(AP)—The French cabinet was today to stake its life in the chamber of deputies on a combined policy of non-intervention in the Spanish civil war and "vigilant defense" of French interests.

Informed political sources said that the ministers, meeting with President Albert Lebrun, chose this course in the controversy raging over leftist demands for french aid to government Spain to prevent adverse results of an Italian-supported victory for the insurgents.

Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet was reported to have insisted, before the cabinet, on maintaining neutrality in Spain and keeping France's Pyrenees border closed to help for the sorely-pressed government. This he was said to have insisted, was necessary to hold Britain's support for France in other European problems.

(Britain is firmly opposed to selling arms to either side in Spain. Her cabinet backed Prime Minister Chamberlain on that policy today.)

Will Ask Vote
Political informants said the government probably would demand a vote of confidence on its new policy when the chamber finishes its current foreign affairs debate, probably Friday night.

The cabinet debated the Spanish crisis for two and a half hours today but announced no decision.

The Spanish insurgents passed another barrier today in their drive on Barcelona.

Southwest of Barcelona Generalissimo Franco's troops reported they had crossed the Goya river, thrust back government lines, which had held since the fall of Tarragona Sunday, taken two small villages and gained three miles.

Government forces apparently suffered west of the threatened capital, however. A column led down the Barcelona-Lerida highway by Franco personally was slowed up and turned to cleanup operations.

French Help Urged
Word that its defenders were standing firm on the west helped lift gloom which had settled over Barcelona when the insurgent advance only 35 miles from the capital presented the gravest threat of the two-and-a-half-year civil war.

Insurgent progress alarmed sympathizers in France, where the General Confederation of Labor voted to join socialists and communists in urging the government to send aid to the Spanish republic.

British cabinet members were under guard against repetition of the two-day series of bombings which police believed were the work of the illegal Irish republican army agitating against British dominance over Ireland. Ten men were detained for questioning.

Nelson T. Johnson, American ambassador to China, returned to Washington to report to President Roosevelt on the war in the Orient.

Hendaye, France—(AP)—The insurgent high command reported fresh progress in its swift offensive against Barcelona today with capture of a key point where a secondary highway joins one of the Spanish capital's main supply routes to the French frontier.

The towns of Pons, eight miles northeast of Artea de Segre, was said to have fallen before a smashing thrust of Generalissimo Franco's left wing forces moving up the Artea-Puigcerda road.

The left wing column's ultimate objective seemed to be to cut Barcelona's communication and supply lines to France while southern and central columns move directly against the Spanish capital itself.

Names Brother Of Mrs. Sidley In Will Fight

Ottawa Physician Says Woman Afraid of Alexander Horlick

FEARS DIMINISHED

Asserts Brother Wanted Sister Examined as To Competency

Racine—(AP)—Testimony linking the name of Alexander Horlick with Mrs. Maybelle Horlick Sidley's fear someone was trying to kill her was introduced today in the fight over disposition of the mated milk heiress' $3,000,000 estate.

Mrs. Sidley, who died last July, was a sister of Horlick, a resident of Racine. Her will directed that her son, William, and her friend, W. Perkins Bull of Toronto, Canada, receive $250,000 each and one-third shares in the residue of her estate. Sidley is attempting to break the will.

Dr. J. S. S. Cathcart of Ottawa, Canada, who witnessed the signing of the document, brought Horlick's name into the case.

The Canadian psychiatrist told of meeting Mrs. Sidley in November, 1936. He said she frequently walked to a window and looked out and apparently dreaded something. She said she was looking for two cars which had followed her to Canada from Racine and expressed the opinion the occupants were trying to kill her and Bull. She mentioned Horlick in that connection, the doctor testified.

Tells of "Friction"
"What did she give as her reason for this fear?" asked Ralph Hoyt, counsel for executors of the will.

"The reason, as I recall, went back a long distance," Dr. Cathcart replied. "And she indicated her brother, Alexander, had in some way or other created a little friction between her and her husband, (the late Dr. John Sidley) eventually leading to dissolution of their marriage."

Dr. Cathcart said Mrs. Sidley was "sort of morbid" over the recent death of her father, Colonel William Horlick, founder of the mated milk fortune, but aside from that and fear for her life "I think there was no deviation from normal."

Discussing Mrs. Sidley's condition a year later Dr. Cathcart testified:

"Her apprehension had pretty much vanished and there was no indication whatever she might be suffering hallucinations. I don't think I had established, however, that her misinterpretations were definite hallucinations. It is probable they never really got beyond misinterpretation of the behavior of certain cars on the highways. These had definitely disappeared by November of 1937."

Asked Examination
Alexander Horlick's name was mentioned at another point in the testimony when the doctor was discussing his observations relative to Mrs. Sidley's health.

Horlick had requested that his sister be examined to determine whether she was competent to act as an executor of her father's estate.

"He wanted her removal," Dr. Cathcart said. "I didn't want to question her along the line suggested. I felt it would hurt her terribly."

Concerning other observations, the doctor said:

"I noticed Mrs. Sidley's apparent hunger for affection. She preferred male company. There was nothing coquettish about it. It was more nearly the maternal instinct. It was very apparent to me she was very much attached to Mr. Bull and also to one of his younger sons. It was a type of affection on the highest plane."

Company Will Not Give Up Records

Won't Permit Officers to Testify Without Court Order

Washington—(AP)—The Associated Gas and Electric system served notice today that it would not submit its records or permit officers to testify on the reasonableness of their charges until and unless ordered to do so by the supreme court.

The commission had issued subpoenas calling for both the records and testimony by the company's officers in an effort to determine whether the 14 service companies in the far-flung Pennsylvania utilities domain were operating profitably and consistently with the public welfare.

No books or records were in evidence as the long-heralded investigation got under way and the first witness, C. A. Dougherty, defiantly refused to identify himself or his connections with the Associated system.

Fireman Helps When Baby Arrives During Journey to Hospital

Neenah—When Alfred Lange became a member of the Neenah fire department, he was probably told to be prepared for anything, but he was just a little bewildered at the emergency that faced him early Tuesday morning.

The boys around the fire station are calling him "midwife" these days and casting sly remarks in his direction, but—well, here's the story.

About 2 o'clock Tuesday morning, the Neenah fire department received a call from a telephone operator who said, "You are wanted at 612 Roosevelt street."

The firemen leaped to their places and a fire truck roared out into the darkness. When they arrived at the address, they found it was an ambulance and not a fire truck that was needed. So they roared back to the station.

Norman Hooper and Lange jumped in an ambulance and raced back out to the house, with Hooper at the wheel. They found Mrs. Gustav Melke, a highly expectant mother, in the machine and started for the hospital.

There were just the three of them in there, Hooper at the wheel, Mrs. Melke wondering just how much farther they must drive to reach the hospital, and Lange just wondering.

Two blocks short of their destination the baby arrived, with Lange assisting. Mother and baby—a daughter—are doing fine, thank you. So is Lange.

Hopkins Is Given Committee's O. K.

By 13 to 6 Vote

All Republican Members Of Commerce Group Oppose Him

Washington—(AP)—The senate commerce committee approved today the nomination of Harry L. Hopkins for secretary of commerce.

The vote for Hopkins' nomination was 13 to 6, with all Republican committee members voting "No."

Democrats supporting Hopkins were Maloney of Connecticut, Caraway of Arkansas, Hill of Alabama, Lee of Oklahoma, Guffey of Pennsylvania, Radcliffe of Maryland, Donahay of Ohio, Bilbo of Mississippi, Pepper of Florida, Clark of Missouri, Sheppard of Texas, Mead of New York and Overton of Louisiana.

Committee Chairman Bailey (D-N. C.) did not vote.

Republicans opposing the nomination were McNary of Oregon, Johnson of California, Vandenberg of Michigan, White of Maine, Barbour of New Jersey and Gibson of Vermont.

Hopkins, regarded as one of President Roosevelt's most intimate advisers, was subjected to critical questioning by committee members last week on his administration of the WPA.

The new commerce secretary conceded that as WPA administrator he had made some mistakes. If he had the job to do over again, he added, he would not make political speeches.

William A. Harriman, New York banker and chairman of the business advisory council, testified in support of Hopkins' nomination.

Union Rank and File To Pass on Dispute

Detroit—(AP)—The rank and file will act as judge and jury in settling the long and torrid factional fight among the officers of the United Auto Workers' union.

The huge CIO unit which claims a membership of nearly 400,000 prepared formal notices today calling locals to a special convention to decide, principally, the status of President Homer Martin.

The convention, by declaration of the union's anti-Martin executive board yesterday will open March 30 in Cleveland, continuing indefinitely "until business is completed."

Long-awaited as the "showdown" to test Martin's power, the convention will elect international officers and board members and make such constitutional changes as it "deems necessary."

Widespread Changes Rumored In Reich's Administration:

Nazi Leaders to be Affected

Berlin—(AP)—Rumors of far-reaching changes in the Nazi administration involving such men as Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels and others were current in Berlin today.

They coincided with the return to his desk in the propaganda ministry of Goebbels after nearly a month's illness. Official sources declined to confirm or deny them.

According to these reports, circulated by men usually in a position to know, Goering will shortly become vice chancellor and minister of war. Both posts have been vacant for some time—the vice-chancellorship since Franz von Papen, its last holder, was made special ambassador to Austria after the assassination of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss in 1934, and the war ministry since the resignation of Field Marshal Werner von Blomberg in February, 1938.

Claims End of Tax Exemption Business Aid

Treasury Official Sees $300,000,000 in Add- ed Revenue

HEARING STARTS

Witness Asserts Present System Keeps Capital From Industry

Washington—(AP)—John W. Hanes, undersecretary of the treasury, said today the treasury might realize $300,000,000 annually by adopting President Roosevelt's proposal to remove tax exemptions from future state and local salaries and bond interest.

Hanes, first witness before the special senate committee studying the proposal, said removal of exemptions would help prevent wealthy persons from avoiding taxes and would stimulate investment in private industry.

In a statement prepared for reading to the committee, Hanes, himself a former Wall street broker, said:

"Industry finds it difficult to compete with tax-exempt securities in attracting the capital of individuals in the higher income brackets. . . . We are confronted today with a great surplus of capital which does not desire to take a chance and a distinct shortage of that which does. . . . Some capital is needed to induce the investment of cautious capital."

Problem For Industry

Hanes, who was brought into the administration about a year ago for his practical business knowledge and for his efforts to promote cooperation between the government and business, asserted that tax exemption of federal securities sometimes gives wealthy persons a source of investment yielding returns equivalent to more than 10 per cent, after adding actual interest and tax savings.

Private industry, he said, cannot hold out any such promise and therefore has difficulty attracting capital.

Hanes estimated that federal income taxes would increase from $179,000,000 to a maximum of $337,000,000 per year if all tax exemptions were ended. He said the treasury would gain an additional estimated $116,000,000 from taxing salaries of state and local government employees. These gains, he added, would be offset slightly by from $19,000,000 to $50,000,000 per year in increased interest costs which might result from withdrawing tax exemptions from future issues of securities.

Hanes also estimated that after all present state and local government securities were replaced with non-exempt securities, as proposed in the legislation, interest costs of the state and local governments would increase approximately $40,000,000 to $165,000,000 per year.

He gave, however, no estimate of the probably increased revenue to state and local governments from taxing interest of federal securities and salaries of federal employees.

Mahr Begins Serving Life Prison Sentence

For Murdering Girl

Waupun—(AP)—Ernest John Mahr, 24, of Milwaukee, began serving a life term in the state prison here today for the brutal hatchet murder of Ruth Scott, 16-year-old Milwaukee high school girl.

Sentenced by Municipal Judge Max Nohl yesterday less than 36 hours after the crime was committed, Mahr was brought here last night and immediately assigned to a cell.

He told officers he would "pray" for the recovery of Mrs. Ida Scott, the slain girl's mother, who he confessed striking on the head with the hatchet and slashing with a butcher knife.

As he entered the prison Mahr murmured:

"I guess the only way I'll ever come out of here again will be feet first."

Beloit Boy Is Killed In Scuffle at School

Beloit—(AP)—Gerald Hunt, 14, was killed today in a scuffle with Sam White, 15-year-old Negro boy, in front of Lincoln Junior High school where both are students.

Fellow students said Hunt and White started a friendly scuffle shortly before the afternoon session. White's hat was pulled down over his eyes. When Hunt grabbed the hat, White lunged at Hunt, knocking him to the ground.

Hunt's head struck a cement step and he suffered a fractured skull. He died a few minutes later. Authorities said they were holding White without charge, pending an inquest.

State Wage-Hour Plan Offered in Badger Assembly

Stronger Liquor Laws Proposed in Senate Measure

Larger Hunting and Fish- ing License Fees Also Requested

Madison—(AP)—The state senate in a brief session received bills today to tighten the restrictions under the liquor laws and to raise additional funds for conservation work through increased hunting and fishing license fees.

Senator Allan J. Busby, (P.), West Allis, was the author of two bills designed to eliminate the use of "come-on" girls in taverns and to prevent dry communities receiving any portion of the state liquor taxes, which are now distributed to localities on a population basis.

Among the communities which would be affected by the latter bill is Richland Center, home of Vernon Thomson (R), assembly speaker.

Busby's regulatory bill provides that in addition to the statutory penalties, any licensee to sell liquor shall be automatically forfeited if the licensee is convicted of a felony, operating a disorderly house, employing "come-on" girls or selling untaxed liquor.

License Proposals
Senator G. Erle Ingram, (P.), Eau Claire, introduced bills which would raise the hunting licenses from $1 to $2 and establish a $1 license for hook and line fishing for all persons between the ages of 18 and 70.

At present, license is required only for fishing with rod and reel. The new license would permit the holder to use either a cane pole or rod.

Revenue from the proposed increase in hunting licenses would be used exclusively for creation and maintenance of public hunting grounds.

Senator Harry Bolens (D), Port Washington, submitted a bill which would extend the present 15 cents a pound tax on oleomargarine to "cottonseed oil and other similar products."

Kidnaping Ransom Tax Trial Factor

Former Aid to Capone Ac- cused of Getting $50,- 000 in 1931

Chicago—(AP)—A reputed $50,000 kidnaping ransom became a factor today in the government's effort to collect back income taxes and penalties from Murray Humphreys, erstwhile gang lieutenant of Al Capone.

A charge that Chicago's former public enemy No. 1 received the ransom in 1931 and never paid income taxes on it was made yesterday by John D. Kiley, counsel for the bureau of internal revenue.

Kiley said he was prepared to prove the charge. He did not name the alleged victim of the unpublished kidnaping, but Robert G. Fitchie, president of the milk wagon drivers' union, was present at the hearing, ostensibly as a government witness.

Under Illinois statutes an indictment for kidnaping must be returned within three years of the date of the crime to be valid.

The hearing conducted by Judge B. B. Turner of the United States board of Tax Appeals was on Humphreys' appeal from a claim for $7,165 on 1930-32 income. Humphreys paid a $5,000 fine and served 18 months in prison after pleading guilty in 1934 to a charge of tax evasion.

Humphreys testified the size of his income had been greatly exaggerated. In 1930, he said, his income was $5,000, received for "strawberries" and some difficulties (labor trouble) in the dry cleaning industry. His co-worker in this enterprise, he said, was Jack "Machine Gun" McGurn, since slain.

Asks Fund for 10-Year Loans to Unemployed

Washington—(AP)—An Episcopal rector urged a senate appropriations subcommittee today to add $150,000,000 to the relief appropriations bill and earmark the extra sum for 10-year loans to the unemployed.

The minister, the Rev. David C. Colony of St. Luke's Episcopal church in Philadelphia, said the $725,000,000 voted by the house for relief was sufficient, but that additional funds should be provided to remove people from relief and set them up in completely self-sustaining employment.

President Roosevelt originally asked $75,000,000 to operate the works progress administration until June 30, but the house balked at that sum.

Mr. Colony said the $150,000,000 could be used for interest-bearing loans to develop enterprises in which the unemployed could work.

EX-SENATOR DIES

Edward F. Costigan, 61, former senator from Colorado, who retired in 1936 from public life, died last night at his Denver home after a heart attack.

Edward Costigan, Former Senator, Dies in Colorado

Was Among First to De- mand Direct Relief For Jobless

Denver—(AP)—Edward Costigan, 64, who in 1931 became one of the first senators to demand direct federal relief for the jobless, died last night of a heart attack at his Denver home.

Elected to the senate in 1930 as a Democrat, Costigan quickly became recognized as a leader of the liberal bloc that eventually enacted a New Deal program incorporating many governmental theories he long had advocated.

Illness forced Costigan, to retire from public life in 1936. He contracted a cold Sunday, and yesterday developed pneumonia, which unexpectedly affected his heart.

Costigan left the Republican party to become the unsuccessful Progressive candidate for Colorado governor in 1912 and 1914.

He became a Democrat in 1916 and was appointed to the tariff commission by President Wilson. Costigan argued for the reciprocal tariff policies now being put into effect by Secretary Hull. He resigned from the commission in 1928.

Author of Sugar Act
Costigan was a co-author of the Jones-Costigan sugar act, later enacted.

New York Physician Describes Woman's 'Return From Death'

New York—(AP)—A "return from death" was recorded today by Dr. Maurice R. Goodwin, Bronx physician, in reviving 57-year-old Mrs. Bella Sutterman, after she appeared dead after succumbing to an attack of asthma.

A heart stimulant, artificial respiration and poison inhalators, Dr. Goodwin said, brought the woman "back" in a feat which he described as happening "only once in 10 lifetimes."

The physician, a graduate of the University of Graz, Austria, said that when he arrived at the Sutterman home—some minutes after the woman collapsed—he found relatives and friends bewailing her as dead.

"One look at her and I thought she was dead, too," he said. "I examined her. There was no pulse. No heart action, and she gave every appearance of being dead."

Dr. Goodwin said he administered artificial respiration "without much hope—and in about four minutes I detected a breath."

A police emergency squad used an inhalator for three hours, consuming three tanks of oxygen.

Filling Station Worker Is Shot During Holdup

Eau Claire—(AP)—Sifert Seidl, 24, gasoline filling station attendant, was shot in the back last night by a young gunman who engaged with an undetermined amount of money from the station cash register.

Seidl suffered only a flesh wound and physicians said it was not serious. He told authorities two men entered the station and ordered him to produce $15 cash. Both carried guns. When he was slow in carrying out the order, Seidl said, one of the men shot. They scooped up the money and fled, driving away in an automobile, leaving Minnesota license plates.

Gen. Dawes Thinks Parleys to Bring Peace to Europe

Hails British Prime Minister Chamberlain as 'Fearless Leader'

Chicago — (AP) — General Charles G. Dawes, who shared the Nobel peace prize with Sir Austen Chamberlain in 1925, predicted today that an enduring European peace would emerge from parleys now in progress among Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy.

He based his belief on experience drawn from service as vice president of the United States ambassador to the court of St. James, president of the American Commission on German Reparations, and general purchasing agent of the A. E. F. during the World War.

In one of his rare public addresses, prepared for delivery before the Chicago Association of Commerce, General Dawes came to the defense of the Munich pact and its author, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain, whom he called "a great and fearless leader."

"European peoples are now in the play of a tremendous force—the fear and hatred of war," he said. "In the grasp of this force are dictators and dictatorial governments as well as democratic governments and if the result of its operation is not eventually an enduring peace in Europe, then the world may despair of any civilization hereafter which will not destroy itself by war."

Fear Prevailing War
This force of fear, he asserted, prevented it when Germany absorbed Austria, and forestalled it again during the Czechoslovakian crisis.

"I believe... that out of the negotiations already in progress between the four great powers of Britain, France, Germany and Italy there will finally result an enduring peace, with the might of the four powers pledged to protect it, not simply as a matter of ethics but as a matter of their individual self-interest," he said.

"The implications of the existence of a deep-seated and widespread horror and hatred of war on the part of European peoples do not seem to be fully sensed."

Need Readjustments
"The statesmen of Europe should and do realize that it is only to the great war that this general attitude of the peoples of Europe owes its existence, and that if Europe, without war and in peace, is ever to make the difficult territorial and racial readjustments necessary to insure continuing peace, she must do it now."

"Manifestly, if the world has not learned now the futility of the effort to settle its major problems by war, it will never learn it. But few seem to sense the great truth that the best evidence we have yet had that Europe has learned this lesson is the Munich agreement."

"This agreement has demonstrated that as a result of the World War the attitude of the peoples of Britain, France, Germany and Italy is such that when war is the probable alternative they will support the minor national concessions and sacrifices advocated in the interest of peace by courageous statesmen."

Christensen Terms Production Control as 'Ineffective' Plan

St. Paul, Minn. — (AP) — Production control as a national policy to promote agricultural prosperity was termed "ineffective" today by Chris L. Christensen, dean of the college of agriculture at the University of Wisconsin.

Christensen told a University of Minnesota farm and home week audience that as an emergency measure the agricultural adjustment program "may have been justified" but it is his opinion that neither national welfare nor farm interest will be furthered by a policy of restricting production.

Without definite commitment on the administration's reciprocal trade treaty program, Christensen made clear his opposition to a nationalistic, high-tariff policy as a way to solve the nation's farm problem.

'Sinister Plotting' Proves to Be Forming of Insurance Group

Hagerstown, Md. — (AP) — This community's "spy-plot," which furnished lively street corner conversation for almost a week, had proved today to be a dud.

Two Hagerstown business men, who felt the pinch of a boycott after reports of sinister plotting by foreign agents, carrier pigeons, hearing secret messages and foreign flags being unfurled under cover of darkness, helped dispel rumors of espionage.

Max Rohder, treasurer of a doughnut company, and Albert Beck, a tavern keeper, declared the incident was based on the establishment here of a branch of the German Beneficial union, a mutual insurance society with headquarters in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Rohder, who was named Hagerstown agent for the society, said it was without political connection but soon "they told all kinds of stories— they said I was a German spy. The doughnut business fell off 2 per cent and people told me the reason is I am a Nazi agent."

Beck's plaint was similar. "The union held four or five meetings in my restaurant," he said. "I took out insurance... They ate in my place... I wanted to pay them back. Then the stories got started that was a German spy... it just demoralized my business."

Police said they had received numerous reports of foreign flags being hoisted at night in various sections of Hagerstown, but failed to find any of them.

Demands of Local Governmental Units for More State Aid Will Make It Hard to Pare Budget

BY JOHN W. WYNGAARD
Madison—Wisconsin local governments, having grown accustomed to regarding their creator, the state government, as an orphaned child regards an unsympathetic step-parent, are watching the 1939 session of the state legislature develop with considerable trepidation.

The reason is that state and local government are almost inextricably intertwined in Wisconsin. But their financial interests are opposed. If the state government administration economizes drastically, it will probably mean greater loads for the local government, county and city. If the local governments persuade the legislature of the justice of their demands, it will mean greater costs for the state.

Both county and city, represented in the Wisconsin County Boards association and the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, face the new legislature with an ambitious set of proposals, including many which if passed, will undoubtedly run directly counter to the budget paring aim of the Republican state administration.

The local units have two important arguments: First that counties and municipalities have only one important source of fiscal revenue, the general property tax, while the state's tax resources are as broad as the ingenuity of the legislature; second, in many localities the general property tax load has reached the peak, or the peak beyond which the taxpayers are likely to revolt.

Would Unload Burden
Faced with growing needs for relief, pensions, other forms of welfare aids, education and highway demands, the counties and cities approach the state law-makers this year with a program which seeks to unload on the state government a greater share of these burdens.

However, the Wisconsin County Boards' association has already found itself on the defensive, without an opportunity to introduce its affirmative financial measures.

The suggested budget for direct relief, pensions, and aid to dependent children proposed to Governor or Held by state departments means an increased cost of $8,250,000 to local units of government for the next two years, the association warned today.

It added that the counties particularly cannot take on the added tax burden contemplated under the proposed budget submitted for Wisconsin social welfare activities.

The organization has warned the new administration that "it is an utter impossibility for the counties to carry this added burden" because "a majority of Wisconsin counties are now up to the limit of real estate taxes, and many of them have also reached their bond limits."

The proposed budget submitted on relief calls for an expenditure by the state of about 17 per cent of the total relief cost, it was pointed out. Local units carry the remainder of the burden, or about 83 per cent.

The group proposed, as a solution, that the state accept greater shares of both pension and relief costs.

Moreover, the association will introduce other financial bills, not the least of which will be a demand for a substantial increase in the state's annual $3,000,000 appropriation for the upkeep of county highways.

Now Come Cities
While the county boards organization is usually relatively successful in its efforts to the legislature, the League of Municipalities at each biennial session introduces a gigantic program, only a small percentage of which is ever realized.

In a legislative program announced yesterday, the League said that its legislative conference here this week unanimously voted to request a joint session of both houses of the state legislature for the purpose of allowing Mayor James R. Law of Madison, League president, to present "the serious financial plight in which Wisconsin local governments find themselves because of the failure of the state of Wisconsin to assume the same responsibility for financing the relief program and old-age assistance as other comparable states."

The League also demanded "the financing of relief and social security costs in Wisconsin out of state-collected, locally-shared revenues other than general property taxes, to be administered locally."

The League also proposed an increase in state aids for local streets and roads of $1,912,333, which would bring the state support of county roads up to 19 per cent, town, 40 per cent, village, 19 per cent, and city, 16 per cent.

More School Support
Significantly, and probably to the embarrassment of some of the legislative politicians now busy in Madison, the League voted "to heartily endorse the proposal contained in the political party platforms to the effect that the state assume a larger responsibility for local school costs." At present Wisconsin is 34th in the order of states in state support for education, while the national average is twice that which Wisconsin contributes, League officials said.

The League also approved installment payment of real estate taxes, a municipal retirement plan, amendment to the law making municipalities liable for mob violence, clarification of the home rule statute, and exemption of municipalities from the provisions of the unemployment insurance as other proposals to be submitted to the legislature.

It was also decided to oppose "all proposals to enact a homestead tax exemption law because of the disastrous effect on municipal finances."

The county and city demands will be presented to the law-makers by two of the most influential, experienced, and capable lobbyists in Madison, F. N. McMillin of the League, and A. J. Thelen of the county boards' group.

Attacks Move to 'Rule Medicine'

President-Elect of American Association Opposes Plan

Milwaukee — (AP) — Dr. Rock Sleyster of Wauwatosa, Wis., president-elect of the American Medical association, criticized "medicine by rule, mechanized on the efficiency basis," in an address here last night, and noted "with growing concern the attempt to establish foreign systems of medical care in this country."

He told the Milwaukee Academy of medicine that standardized programs of medical care as outlined by the government, agencies do not consider individual conditions.

Such programs, he said, would subject the medical profession "to unsound doctrines which would eventually lower the standards, as in other nations where physicians are subservient to political control."

U. W. Officials Seek New Dairy Industry Building Point to Inadequate Facilities of Present Quarters

Madison — (AP) — Dean Chris L. Christensen, five members of his staff, and two regents made a concerted appeal to the University of Wisconsin board of regents yesterday for a new $650,000 dairy industry building.

With graphs, charts, and samples of cheese manufactured in the present plant, the agricultural experts demonstrated what they termed a "pressing" need for additional facilities.

Regent Kenneth W. Hones, of Colfax, described the 50-year old building now in use "a disgrace to any state." Regent A. J. Glover, of Ft. Atkinson, also supported the plea.

Professor Howard C. Jackson, chairman of the dairy department, asserted that enrollment has increased greatly during the last half century and that many private dairy plants now have better facilities than the university.

Others who spoke were Prof. H. H. Sommer, of the dairy industry department; Prof. Walter V. Price, of the dairy industry department; Prof. Edwin C. Hastings, of the agricultural bacteriology department, and Prof. Edwin E. Heizer, of the dairy husbandry department.

The regents approved reappointment of 18 county agricultural agents. They are: George F. Baumcister, Shawano; Claude O. Ebling, Rusk; Harvey L. Becker, Oneida; James G. Beattie, Walworth; Orvil C. Claffin, Marquette; Alvin D. Carew, Green Lake; Jesse I. Etheridge, Oconto; Walter E. Spreiter, La Crosse; Frederick V. Everett, Burnett; Marvin E. Eves, Eau Claire; Eugene H. Florence, Trempealeau; Carl C. Gilman, Ozaukee; Ira V. Goodell, Adams; Daniel P. Hughes, Dunn; Emil A. Jorgensen, Waushara; George F. Massey, Fond du Lac; Harlan G. Seyforth, Pierce, and Gustav A. When, in 1933, congress gave the federal government the responsibility of caring for the needy, as he and Senators LaFollette and Wagner had advocated two years earlier, Costigan said "a great principle is being established."

Mrs. Mabel C. Costigan, the widow, and Miss Josephine Roche, former assistant secretary of the treasury, were at the former senator's bedside when he died.

Washington — (AP) — Commenting on the death of former Senator Edward P. Costigan in Denver, Senator LaFollette (D-Wis.) said today: "Edward P. Costigan was one of the ablest and finest men it has ever been my privilege to know. He brought to bear on the problems of government a trained mind motivated by broad and deep sympathy for the great masses of people. His example of unselfish devotion and service to humanity will live on in the minds and hearts of all who knew him."

Byrnes Committee Admitting Realities of Relief Problem

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER
Washington—The big, constructive idea underlying the Byrnes committee recommendations for revision of the relief system is that the committee considers relief and unemployment as federal problem to be dealt with on a permanent basis.

The committee refused to duck its head into the sand in the hope that in time something would turn up and wipe out the relief problem. It likewise refused to lose the problem back to the states, leaving it to become a football of legislatures and local politicians.

Three of the five signers of the report are hard-headed, independent Democrats—Chairman Byrnes of South Carolina; Clark of Missouri; and Hatch of New Mexico, whose amendment to prohibit political use of relief funds was voted down by the senate last summer. New Dealer Murray of Montana signed the report with a reservation concerning the formula for distribution of public-work funds. Progressive Republican Frazier of North Dakota also signed. Representatives Lodge of Massachusetts and Davis of Pennsylvania, differed with the majority on some details.

Very likely the general outline of the Byrnes plan will be followed in the revision of relief that is in the offing.

It considers that unemployment compensation is the first line of defense in dealing with temporary unemployment. The Byrnes committee would tie it in closely to the federal employment service so that no one could get compensation if there was a job waiting for him, and for the aged and those otherwise incapacitated, more liberal allowances would be provided, all of this activity to be concentrated under the social security board.

For long-term unemployment not covered by unemployment compensation, public work, through a combination of PWA and WPA into a new department of public works, would be provided. The CCC and the National Youth administration would be absorbed by the proposed new department of public works, all to be staffed under the civil service system, and all appropriations to contain strict prohibitions on political activities.

This report is an attempt to bring order into the haphazard relief activities which have grown up in the last six years.

Sees Unemployment as Permanent Problem
Its first virtue is that it recognizes that the problem of unemployment is here to stay. It was a problem long before 1929 and has become increasingly larger since then. The 1937 boom, while showing production figures above normal, failed to absorb the unemployed. The A. F. of L. estimates that the number of unemployed never fell below 7,500,000 during that peak of activity. We have gone for nearly 10 years with between 8,000,000 and 10,000,000 out of work most of the time.

Hoover, years ago, was talking about using public works as a balance wheel in bad times. The Byrnes committee faces the probabilities and proposes a permanent set-up for handling unemployment—serving temporary unemployment through unemployment compensation and longer-term idleness through public works.

The second virtue of the Byrnes report is that it regards this situation as a federal responsibility primarily. The states are to help. But the job essentially is federal. Republicans who talk of turning relief "back to the states" are either blind to the underlying fact or else merely want to get unemployment relief lodged in the hands of state and local governments where Republicans, in an increasing number of localities, would have a chance to get on it.

The underlying fact is that unemployment is not local—when Cleveland and Toledo automobile accessory plants shut down, when Pittsburgh steel mills shut down on automobile sheets, it is because the country is not buying automobiles and Detroit has to shut down. When Detroit shuts down, the impact is felt in dozens of localities outside of Michigan. Akron, Ohio, is almost entirely at the mercy of conditions in Detroit, Mich.

Would Senator Vandenberg have Detroit stand the relief bill for all of the unemployment in Ohio caused by the last collapse in automobile manufacture? Of course not. The federal government would put up the money and the local politicians would dish it out.

When there is unemployment the federal government will have to foot a good portion of the bill as it should. Doing so, it must have supervision over the expenditures. The Byrnes committee goes at the task of relief with a practical recognition of the realities, and proposes to put a useful prop under the chief weak spot in the capitalist system.

Candidate for CIRCUIT JUDGE

TO THE VOTERS:— I wish to announce I am a candidate for the office of Circuit Judge for the Tenth Judicial Circuit of Wisconsin, to be elected on the first Tuesday of April, 1939.

In the 1935 contest for the judgeship, I carried Langlade County, (my own County), against the present Judge with a vote of better than two to one. (4117 to 1772), and Shawano County (the present Judge's former home), by a majority of 105 votes, and I, (practically a stranger there), received 6685 votes in Outagamie County.

In justice to my many loyal supporters and to myself, I feel I must be a candidate and win this time.

I would not be a candidate for Circuit Judge unless there was some good reason why there should be a change in this judgeship.

I ask the voters to investigate this situation and vote for the candidate they find is the best qualified for the office.

Respectfully submitted, JUDGE A. N. WHITING, Antigo, Wisconsin.

Court Decision to Settle More Than Sit-Down Strikes

Employer's Right to Hire And Fire Involved, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—Issues far more pertinent to the future of labor relations than the question of whether "sit-down" strikes are or are not valid will be settled by the decision in the Fansteel company case which has just been argued before the supreme court of the United States.

Contrary to the impression, which has been given in some quarters, the National Labor Relations board has not recommended the "sit-down" strike as a method of settling labor disputes, nor has it sought to establish the "sit-down" as a legal weapon. The labor board has introduced a different issue, which is of greater importance than the "sit-down," namely whether the reinstatement of workers who have gone on strike is required by the terms of the Wagner act, irrespective of anything the workers may have done in the interim, so long as the labor dispute out of which the alleged crimes grew involved originally an "unfair labor practice" on the part of an employer.

The supreme court is asked by the labor board to rule that if a labor dispute arises and if the employer has been guilty of an "unfair labor practice," then every employee who went out on any kind of strike must be reinstated, no matter whether the "sit-down" strike or illegal picketing or anything else of an unlawful nature occurred in connection with the strike.

Stand Of Lawyers
The lawyers for the Fansteel company, on the other hand, who thus far have been sustained by the lower federal courts, insist that an employer need not reinstate anybody who has participated in a "sit-down" strike and that the right of discharge is broad enough to cover any kind of wrong-doing, whether in connection with a strike or any other conditions relating to employment.

Now, it so happens that the Fansteel company did accept for re-employment some workers who participated in the "sit-down" and refused to reemploy others. The company's reason for differentiating was that some of the employees were forced against their own will to participate in the "sit-down" strike. The company, on the other hand, did not accept for reemployment a single one of the workers who were convicted either of acts of violence or refusal to obey the order of a state court to evacuate the company's premises. Some serious terms in jail and some paid fines.

Now, the question is whether a company can regard the commission of offenses against the laws of the state of Illinois as a sufficient basis for refusal to rehire. The labor board attorneys take the view that the federal statute is plain, that it is concerned only with its own operations and that, if an employer is guilty of an unfair labor practice, it must reinstate the men who went out on a strike and that what the laws of Illinois do to keep order or punish those who disobey is one thing and what the federal government does is quite another.

Police Power
This separation of the federal and state powers is a very important matter, because, if the view of the labor board is accepted by the supreme court, then the agitation for amendment of the Wagner act to prohibit "coercion from any source" will be resumed. This correspondent pointed out several months ago that so long as states retain their police power and effectively exercise it, there is no good reason for adding police functions to the federal government in the matter of coercion of workers by fellow workers. The senators who fought the Tydings amendment at the time the Wagner law was adopted insisted that state laws were ample to protect the workers against intimidation and violence. The test now is at hand and the supreme court's opinion will have a considerable bearing on the direction of the controversy over amendment of the Wagner act.

But, on the other hand, if the supreme court takes the view that men who have committed a crime under state law need not be reinstated because an employer can judge for himself the character of the workers he intends to reemploy, then the effect will be not only to strengthen the prestige of state law enforcement, but to rule out as a basis for reinstatement of striking employees every consideration except the simple fact that they left work and the matter of lawful conduct while they were on strike.

Board Criticized

The labor board is being criticized as "upholding" the "sit-down" strike. Superficially, its position may be subject to that interpretation, but, legally and technically, the labor board is merely seeking a definition of the limits of the reinstatement clause of the Wagner act to determine whether reinstatement is compelled when an employer commits an unlawful act himself, in other words, whether the two wrongs do not cancel each other.

Most observers will be inclined to feel that two wrongs can never cancel each other or make a single right, and that the employer can be made to suffer other penalties for failure to obey the Wagner act than the taking back of employees who have committed a crime against either the state or federal government which makes them undesirable for reemployment from the standpoint of character, morality or loyalty to the employer.

In no other way can all forms of violence be discouraged, not only "sit-down" strikes but the lesser forms of vicious intimidation whereby workers are subjected to abuse by other workers who do not share their views. As for the employers guilty of unfair labor practices, they can be restrained from further interference with self-organization and they can be forced to rehire men whose only offense was that they withdrew from employment to secure respect for their rights. But, whichever way the supreme court decides, it will hardly be on the validity of the "sit-down" strike itself—the state courts have already passed on this—but on the broad right of an employer to hire or fire for reasons other than discrimination on account of union or lawful strike activity.

Council Approves 60-40 Payment of Real Estate Taxes

One Per Cent Interest Charge Will be Made On Deferred Portion

Kaukauna—The common council again approved the 60-40 plan for the payment of real estate taxes at its meeting last night. Residents may pay 60 per cent of their tax on or before Feb. 28, with the remainder to be paid, in one sum, on or before June 30. Interest at the rate of 1 per cent will be charged on the amount due at the time of the latter payment. Residents may pay the full amount of their taxes before March 1, the council granting a 30-day extension.

Tax collections to date by the city treasurer total $23,000. City Clerk Lester J. Brenzel reported. This is about equal to the collections of last year, but with the 60-40 plan now approved tax collections probably will pick up, Brenzel said.

Mayor Lewis F. Nelson reported that city attorney had advised him that the city had the right to issue relief bonds, based on relief expenses in Kaukauna from 1929 to 1938, without a referendum vote. These bonds, to the amount of about $75,000, would be used to take care of some of the city's temporary borrowing. The issue could be carried for 10 years and save possible 14 per cent interest. Chairman Theodore Segelink of the finance committee said, and thus would spread the burden of payment. The finance committee will consider the issue and report back to the council.

Contract Up Again
The contract recently signed between the city and the Green Bay and Mississippi Canal company came in for comment when Alderman Al Hartzheim asked that statements of H. Weckwerth, utility superintendent, and Joseph Lefevre, utility attorney, be included in the minutes.

Alderman Oscar Alger said he understood a public meeting to discuss the contract had been called for Jan. 26 in the civic auditorium and that the contract should be withheld until this meeting.

Brenzel explained the contract was but a copy of the original document, a signed copy of which was already in the hands of the canal company. Alger then asked if the council had thought of reconsidering, but received no support. Towards the end of the session Alderman Edward Steidl, who together with Alger opposed the contract, once more explained his stand. He was not against the 100 per cent development at the Outagamie plant, but against disposing of the city 32 per cent right. The lower development could have been condemned for about $100,000, Steidl said Weckwerth had admitted, and the city would thus have the 100 per cent and still retain the 32 per cent. Over the period the contract has to run the value of the 32 per cent in the city would exceed the $100,000 necessary for condemnation, Steidl argued. Segelink replied that the canal company might condemn the city's 32 per cent, to which Steidl retorted that it could not be done without an adjustment of rates or payment of rental.

Chief's Report
The annual report of Chief of Police James E. McFadden was received by the council. In an accompanying letter McFadden stated that no major crimes had been committed, radio service contacting Brown, Outagamie, Fond du Lac and Winnebago counties had been installed and school patrols organized and coordinated for efficient protection. A 15 per cent reduction in traffic accidents was reported, with prospects for a further reduction this year if citizens continued to cooperate. The annual report of the fire department, public library board and city treasurer also were received and placed on file.

The state highway commission informed the city that its request for erection of signs at the junction of Gertrude street and County Trunk J had been received, and that the city would be informed soon if any action could be taken.

The city received notice that $602.50 of relief aid had been allotted by the state. Brenzel said the city treasurer had already received the check. Alderman Raymond Nagel, poor committee head, asked that City Attorney Harry F. McAndrews be instructed to take action against the county in two relief cases involving about $1,700. The council approved.

Pass Recommendations
The board of public works, Chairman Edward Steidl reported, had directed City Engineer Frank M. Charlesworth to draw up a city-wide project relating to the construction of curbs, walks, storm sewers, etc.; that a grant of $700 was made to the P and D Construction company for the sewage plant, and that NYA workers were to repair old brackets holding city signs and replace broken ones. The council approved all the board's recommendations.

A petition asking for a street light on Patten's road, signed by 78 persons was granted. Mayor Nelson asked that the council consider an ordinance to regulate the distribution of handbills.

Segelink reported on the meeting of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities' pension committee which he attended last week, and also discussed state taxes.

Two communications were read from the Kaukauna Machine Corporation, one announcing that the entire assets of the former Moloch Machine and Foundry company had been taken over, and the other thanking the council for its resolution of Jan. 3 welcoming the new organization to Kaukauna.

First WPA Crew Begins Work on Power Project

Additional Men Will be Transferred When Other Jobs are Finished

Kaukauna—Construction of the new hydro electric plant at the former Patten Paper company site, the work of which upon completion has been estimated at about $475,000, began this morning when the first crew of WPA workers took over. As other Kaukauna WPA projects are completed additional men will be moved to the new development, until a force of about 30 will be employed. About 30 will be left on the Strassburg sewer job. Beginning of the project climaxes several weeks of intense discussion and months of work by the utility commission and city officials. The contract giving Kaukauna 100 per cent water rights below the Badger plant was approved Jan. 6 at a special meeting.

A WPA grant of $232,701 has been awarded Kaukauna for the project. A 2,400 kilowatt generator will be installed at the plant.

Sees Great Value
In a statement last night at the council meeting, Mayor Lewis F. Nelson prophesied that the development would be of great value to Kaukauna. A 100 per cent development, which will now be carried out, had been looked forward to for many years, he said. The utility commission, and city officials deserve the praise and thanks of all citizens in concluding the agreement, which with 100 per cent flow means a plant that can operate 88 per cent of the time, compared to one that could run but 43 per cent of the time with the original 32 per cent right, he said. The Patten plant will be a better development than the present Badger plant, Nelson stated, as it has the right not only to all the water that goes through the Badger plant but in addition all that goes through the Thimble Pulp and Paper company's wheels.

At no time have city officials acted hastily or in secret on the contract with the Green Bay and Mississippi Canal company, Nelson continued. The special meeting Jan. 6 was called to allow WPA work to begin as quickly as possible.

Actual work at the site will begin with new construction and repair of existing walls. The channel will extend from below the Badger plant, across islands which according to the contract are now the city's property, to the powerhouse.

asking for the extension had been received by the state conservation commission, sponsors of the hearing.

Dim Lights for Safety
The state highway commission informed the city that its request for erection of signs at the junction of Gertrude street and County Trunk J had been received, and that the city would be informed soon if any action could be taken.

The city received notice that $602.50 of relief aid had been allotted by the state. Brenzel said the city treasurer had already received the check. Alderman Raymond Nagel, poor committee head, asked that City Attorney Harry F. McAndrews be instructed to take action against the county in two relief cases involving about $1,700. The council approved.

Pass Recommendations
The board of public works, Chairman Edward Steidl reported, had directed City Engineer Frank M. Charlesworth to draw up a city-wide project relating to the construction of curbs, walks, storm sewers, etc.; that a grant of $700 was made to the P and D Construction company for the sewage plant, and that NYA workers were to repair old brackets holding city signs and replace broken ones. The council approved all the board's recommendations.

A petition asking for a street light on Patten's road, signed by 78 persons was granted. Mayor Nelson asked that the council consider an ordinance to regulate the distribution of handbills.

Segelink reported on the meeting of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities' pension committee which he attended last week, and also discussed state taxes.

Two communications were read from the Kaukauna Machine Corporation, one announcing that the entire assets of the former Moloch Machine and Foundry company had been taken over, and the other thanking the council for its resolution of Jan. 3 welcoming the new organization to Kaukauna.

Koehne Climbing In Scoring Race

D-X Forward Moves From Sixth to Third In City League List

Kaukauna—Adding 17 points to his total in Sunday's game, Art Koehne, D-X forward, jumped from sixth place to third for the major change in the city league scoring race. Koehne now has 35 points on 13 baskets and 9 free throws. Charley Bloch, though held to 4 points by the Pantry Lunch guards, still leads the parade with 45 points on 20 baskets and 5 gift shots. His brother Ed is second with 39 points, the result of 18 baskets and 3 free throws.

Jake Jacobson of Gustmans with 33 points and Ken Vils of the CYO with 31 complete the first five. The CYO and D-X cagers are under a handicap in the scoring race, as the game between them went to the Oils on a forfeit, and thus no players could roll up points. All the other teams have played four games. The first half ends with games this weekend.

The first ten are as follows:

MUSCULAR RHEUMATIC PAINS—ACHES

It takes more than "just a salve" to bring speedy relief. It takes a "counter-irritant" like good old soothing, warming Musterole to penetrate the surface skin and help to quickly relieve the painful local congestion and aches due to colds. Muscular lumbago, soreness and stiffness generally yield promptly.

Better than the old-fashioned mustard plaster. Musterole has been used by millions for 30 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. In three strengths: Regular, Children's (mild) and Extra Strong, 40¢. All druggists.

New Dealers Would Like More Control Over American Press

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—The campaign of Mr. Roosevelt, Thurman Arnold and Harold Ickes against the newspapers closely follows the method of Hitler's preparatory work against Czechoslovakia and Mussolini's buildup of his case against Abyssinia. The axis dictators started at a murmur and worked up to a wild howl of outrage. The New Deal, after a long session of needling, is now beginning to reveal a serious intention to muzzle or starve the American kind of journalism, which is generally admitted to be the best journalism in the world.

Meanwhile the New Deal has been building up its own type of press. Herbert Hoover has accused the administration of employing a thousand paid publicity agents daily and hourly to praise, color and sell its official acts and "pollute thought with the drugs of propaganda."

In moving for the abolition of the so-called national emergency council, Representative Bruce Barton charged that the council was only a front for a band of 290 press agents "engaged in disseminating publicity for the New Deal."

"The council maintains a field staff in the various states supposedly for the purpose of co-ordinating federal emergency activities," he said. "But in reality this staff constitutes a corps of publicity agents for the Democratic party."

Both Hoover and Barton are experts on publicity and propaganda but they are prejudiced and therefore may exaggerate. However, it is well known that this administration has hired more newspapermen as propagandists than any other, with the possible exception of Wilson's temporary wartime machine, and it should be remembered that Mussolini, as one of his earliest appeals for willing praise, bribed all the journalists of Italy to go along with him by creating a system of job protection and other benefits in the privately owned press. He didn't have to take his press agents into the government. The government, which was Mussolini's, forced the press, which became a government agency, to grant them conditions which a free press could not maintain.

Arnold Makes Pass At Newspaper Income
Mr. Arnold has made a pass at the advertising revenues of the papers in a statement arguing that advertising fosters unjust monopoly by enabling the advertiser to sell more goods than a non-advertiser to the detriment of the latter. Thus in a move ostensibly intended to protect the non-advertiser the newspapers would be deprived of the income by which they live and the field would be cleared for some new kind of journalism.

Possibly the new kind would be the European type which prints only propaganda and picks up its money from political parties, munitions makers and foreign interests. It might be a government press. The range for conjecture is wide, the only certainty being that the American type of press, with its fine virtues and its acknowledged but not capital faults, would be put to death as a penalty for opposing the New Deal.

Ickes argues along the same lines in holding that because papers to live by the money received from the advertising trade they must favor the interests of advertisers and betray the interests of the public. He refuses to admit that it is possible for a paper and an advertiser to make an even trade of space for an agreed amount of money without any hidden and dishonest obligation on the part of the papers to perform implied but unstated favors for the customer.

Objective Is Shown In Their Remarks

None of them has yet openly admitted an intention to kill off the existing type of American newspaper, but the objective reveals itself in their remarks, for if Arnold and Ickes had their way the papers simply could not live. The president has been less bold, leaving the heavy duty to his two lieutenants, after the manner of Hitler in Czechoslovakia. They have been turning on the heat with occasional remarks from him, and they have now reached the stage of arguing, per Ickes, that the press should be but isn't, a servant of a free democracy.

If that is what it should be but isn't, then possibly the New Deal will feel a duty to make it so. The method is first to convict it by propaganda, then to kill it by laws curtailing the advertising and consequent starvation and, finally, to compel the new American press to serve free democracy.

Mr. Ickes obviously feels qualified to decide just what constitutes service and what is disservice to free democracy and in the final development of the plan might be induced to serve as national editor, perhaps from a quiet sanctuary in the Washington Naval hospital, where board, room and medical service may be had by political guests of free democracy at the nominal fee of $3.75 a day.

DEATH ENTERS A DECLINE

Although complete reports have not as yet been compiled, the National Safety Council estimates a total of 31,500 deaths from automobile accidents in the United States during 1938. Viewed emotionally, this is an appalling piece of news. Statistically, however, it is cause for rejoicing. Not since 1933 has there been a smaller death list.

If the prediction of the council is accurate, there will have been a reduction of 8,000 from the all-time high of 39,500 recorded in 1937. One of the most encouraging facts is that November, which showed a decline of 17 per cent in the number of deaths from automobile accidents, was the thirteenth consecutive month of improvement.

It is probable that a definite determination of the principal cause of the improvement would be difficult, if not impossible. Many factors have contributed to the growing control over this menace to human life—improvement in highway construction, a growing consciousness of the appalling consequences of reckless driving, compulsory inspection of automobiles in a number of States and stricter and more effective regulation of traffic.

There have been times during the course of the continuing crusade against highway slaughter when its leaders have had reason for despair. In spite of educational efforts, counsel and warnings, punishment of reckless and irresponsible drivers, and efforts along many other lines, the toll of death has grown with each succeeding year.

At last there is this marked turn for the better. It represents a triumph for persistence in a great cause and holds out the hope that eventually, as the crusade continues and its effectiveness grows, there will be even more substantial savings in human life.

HUSBANDS COME HIGH

Mrs. Hazel Cornwall pled guilty at Chicago to embezzlement of $4300 from a bank at which she was employed in the capacity of teller. Her plea for leniency was based upon her use of the money to hold and please her husband. He, she claimed, was very much dissatisfied with the way in which she supported him. He scorned the things she bought him and turned contemptuous eyes upon the furniture and apartment she sustained to shelter him.

Such is the story from that walk in life which Marxists call bourgeois, and the way they pronounce the word should make the middle class fearful at their hatred.

But higher up the social ladder, and at about the same time, Mrs. Martha McClatchey was having a good deal of trouble in spite of her very sizable fortune. She paid a man 27 years her junior the sum of $400,000 to marry her and since he had been receiving but $150 a month prior to this apparently handsome offer he closed the deal with éclat and relish.

After a year of this contractual connubial bliss we find the good lady in court trying to get her $400,000 back upon the ground that her husband had deserted her. A cold and austere judge reviewing this check book romance decided that the young man was within his rights and there was nothing in the bond or contract which insured the lady that he would abide at her side forever. And so she lost the $400,000 and, eventually, her husband.

These items should give the masculine world cause for rejoicing. To be continually painted as the bold one in high pursuit after the coy maiden has become, perhaps, a bit moribund and weary. To take instead the autocratic attitude of a Hapsburg upon the principle that husbands are worthy propositions entitled to great consideration should at least be interesting.

SLAUGHTER IN SPAIN

The swiftly fluctuating tides of battle in Spain prove only one thing, a truce that needs no proof, that is supported by the evidence of centuries of history—that the Spaniard is one of the world's most valiant soldiers and is never beaten until the last drop of blood has been shed.

A dozen times since the beginning of the Spanish civil war, General Franco and his insurgents have seemed about to deliver the coup de grace. They have gained possession of most of the territory and many key cities and towns, yet Madrid and Barcelona have not as yet fallen. They have had the advantages of Italian and German support in the field and have throughout the conflict received unlimited arms and supplies from outside.

For a time within the last few weeks there have been impressive signs that the end was near. After long preparation, and with substantial foreign aid, General Franco launched a determined attack which seemed to have many evidences of finality. Within two weeks, the Nationalist Army, advancing from Lerida to Barcelona, smashed the Loyalist outpost positions along the Segre and seemed to have cleared the way for the final encirclement of the city.

But the latest drive to end the Spanish war has been halted by a Loyalist diversion, an offensive in the southwest that has swept beyond the Zujar river, and which has as its purpose a penetration to the Portuguese border which will split insurgent Spain in two. This strategy has had the effect of compelling General Franco to withdraw troops from Catalonia, thus weakening, if not stopping entirely, the whole northern drive.

There is one positive and one probable consequence of the continuing war in Spain. The ruin of Spain may be regarded as a certainty.

With respect to the war there is but one thing for the nations of the world to concern themselves about, and that is to make sure that the sparks flying high from the Spanish conflagration do not set Europe ablaze.

IMPLEMENTING THE SCIENCES

What has been described as "one of the greatest catastrophes suffered by humanity" is the backwardness of the sciences of life as compared to the sciences of matter. The necessity is the better adjustment of one to the other. Filing of a semiconfidential plan at the Richmond gathering of scientists is evidence of the wider recognition being given the problem. In presenting the plan which provides for a national non-partisan council, three famous scientists joined in this significant statement:

"For some years scientists have been increasingly concerned with the social implications of their discoveries. Some scientific circles have been seeking of late for some way to implement their growing social consciousness. For instance, a world federation of science, or a parliament of science, have been suggested. However, something much more definite is needed if this potentially valuable social consciousness of scientists is to be made effective."

Supplementing this effort was the organization at Richmond of the Association of Scientific Workers, the counter-part of a British group formed in 1918. While advancing the interests of members, its larger purpose will be not only to promote understanding of the relationship between science and social and economic needs, but also to orient scientific development to those needs.

So here may be offered an opportunity for American leadership looking toward the solution of a momentous problem, but obviously a solution that may be attained by no one country or by no one generation.

MARKETING QUOTA TEST

By granting a writ of certiorari to a group of Georgia tobacco growers the Supreme Court of the United States will decide the validity of penalties levied under the agricultural adjustment act of 1938 for marketing tobacco last year in excess of the quotas fixed by Secretary Wallace.

Although adopted by the required two-thirds vote of growers, the plaintiffs maintain that the quota sections of the act is a denial of due process. They further contend that act is invalid because it attempts to regulate all sales of tobacco, intrastate and interstate, and vests the Secretary with undue legislative power.

Of course there is much more to the outcome than the question of whether penalties incurred must be paid. Outlawing of the quota system, while of no consequence to tobacco marketing this year—the growers having recently rejected it—would nullify the cotton growers' acceptance.

FRANKLIN

Two hundred and thirty-three years ago yesterday Benjamin Franklin was born in Boston, a poor boy whose start in life included neither wealth nor formal education. When he died at the ripe age of eighty-four his name was enshrined in history as co-founder of a great nation, scientist, founder of the first public library, founder of a college, printer, publisher, statesman, diplomat and a man of letters.

Few Americans have had as varied or distinguished a career as that of Benjamin Franklin or contributed as much to the advancement of civilization. His birthday deserves to be universally celebrated as that of one of the nation's greatest men.

A bumper rice crop of 3,312,000 bags was shipped from Port Houston, Texas, wharves in 1938. Officials estimate the crop was worth $500,000 to rice farmers of the Gulf coast.

A method of mixing powdered coal with soap and water so that it can be pumped through a pipeline, reducing transportation costs from mine to consumer, is being tried out.

Fired by the Berlin-Tokyo flight of a German airplane recently, the aeronautical research institute of Japan's Imperial University is mapping plans for a Tokyo-New York hop.

Iowa, in 1935, had the greatest number of horses, with 902,000. Minnesota and Illinois were tied for second with 746,000 each.

Forest service nurseries in Kansas produced 17,515,679 trees for planting during 1938, officials estimate.

DALE HARRISON'S
In Old New York

New York—I see it all now. The trouble with my writings has been a too wishy-washy approach to Big Issues. While the world has worried over matters of Great Public Concern, I have been frittering away my nouns and verbs over trivia.

This is certainly too bad, and it isn't the Real me. I am the type who should be wielding what the newspaper writers love to refer to as trenchant pen in the service of Civilization. For instance, every time I hear someone say: "You ought to eat spinach, as it is very good for you—full of iron and whatnot," the Real me wants to scream back and retort: "Phooey and Balderdash and a doubleextra snap of my finger! Spinach is an insult to any well regulated digestive tract. How do you know there's iron in it? And what do I want of iron? I weigh too much as it is."

Up to the present moment, however, I have not dared to hurl spinach-is-good-for-you back into the teeth of my propagandists. I have sat silently by and watched millions of poor, misguided youngsters struggling with forkfuls of spinach, and not one word have I spoken to end this ghastly travesty on the art of Educational Eating.

That is just one item. There are others—little things that have escaped our Leaders of Thought who are too busy with Big Issues to give attention to the humbler faults of our times.

That is why I am no longer going to be wishy-washy. I shall call spades spades. And here is

Complaint No. 1.
People do not know when to applaud. Example: A singer, concluding his song, hits a high note. This is his Big Moment. This is the note we've all been waiting to hear. Into it he hurls heart, lungs and larynx. Years of study and suffering and days without hardly anything to eat are behind that high, climactic note.

Do people give a thought to that? No sir. The instant he hits that high note, that epitome of his artistry, the people begin to applaud, but loud. The artist is still throwing that Big Note at them, but they do not hear it because they are too busy clapping their hands or shouting "Bravo!"

Suggested Remedy: Cut off the applauders' hands at the wrists. In the case of "Bravo!" shouters, cut their throats from ear to ear.

Complaint No. 2.
People at ball games and prize-fights who Jump Up and scream: (1) "Kill the Umpire" or (2) "Sock him, Joe!"

You know the type. We are all sitting down enjoying the event which, let us say, is a prize-fight. Suddenly Antagonist A brings one up from the floor and lays it nastily on the chin (or button, as we followers of the Manly Art call it) of Antagonist B. This is the Big Moment for both Antagonist A and Antagonist B, as well as for us citizens who have paid $8.65 for our seat.

I come from that side of the railroad tracks which believes that even in moments of Great Stress such as this, a spectator should still be a gentleman and remain outwardly calm. It is all right for a spectator in such circumstances to emit an excited "Oh, Boy! Whatta Sock!" if he feels the situation warrants, but under no circumstances should he leap from his seat and wave his hands like a Monday wash line in a hurricane. It prevents those behind him from seeing what is taking place and they, in self-defense, leap to their feet. This necessitates those behind them doing the same, and in two seconds everyone is on his feet. It works out all right for the six footers, perhaps, but for shorties (of whom there are a great number) it is suddenly as though the fight were being held in Fairbanks, Alaska.

Space grows short, but I have some other Complaints, viz:

3. Women who repair their complexions with elaborate makeup kits—rouge, lipstick, cream, mascara and eye shadow—in public.
4. Men who smoke pipes in elevators.
5. Dog owners who let the animals out at the full length of the leash, thus occupying the entire sidewalk.
6. Fellows who are always complaining.

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO

Wednesday, Jan. 16, 1929
Charles Ender was to attend the meeting of the Wisconsin Greeters at the new Plankinton hotel at Milwaukee that evening.

Robert Carnes was elected president of the Sophomore Triangle club of the Appleton High school at a meeting at the Y.M.C.A. Other officers elected were Harold Hauert, vice president; Norman Traas, secretary and treasurer; and Harold Higgins, sergeant-at-arms.

Miss Helen Willis, queen of the tennis courts, was to marry Frederick S. Moody, Jr., son of a San Francisco capitalist. It was announced by her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Willis of Berkeley, Calif. The engagement had been rumored since 1926.

Warren Beck, English instructor of Lawrence college, won first prizes in two divisions of the state contest conducted by the Drama League of America. His prize-winning plays were "Fine Frenzy" and "The Audit."

25 YEARS AGO

Wednesday, Jan. 21, 1914
August Kneupel received 1,761 votes, almost double the combined vote of his two opponents, in a primary election for mayor the previous day. Fred Petersen, the second highest candidate, said he would withdraw and save the expense of another election if it would be legal.

No marriage licenses had been issued by County Clerk William F. Wolf for over a week and the unprecedented slump was attributed to a great extent to the new eugenic marriage law requiring physical examination of the prospective bridegroom.

Arnold Peerenboom had leased the three rooms at the southwest corner on the second floor of the Volksfreund building to allow for expansion of his dry goods store.

"Within the Law" played to a capacity and enthusiastic crowd at the Appleton theater the previous evening.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

THE NEIGHBORHOOD MOTHER

Here was so great a mother heart,
She was not satisfied to be
One whose rood offices must start
And end with her own family.

She gathered every child, who played
In the big neighborhood, to her
Each lusty lad and pretty maid
Felt her warm kindness reach and stir.

The sick and lonely sought her door;
The poor and friendless found her hand;
The grieving felt her love restore
Their faith. . . . Hope came at her command.

She was so simple and so good,
Her influence remains to bless
A saddened lonely neighborhood
That mourns her gift of happiness.

A Bystander
In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—It is time somebody gave a semi-blow by blow account of what goes on at some of the more active press conferences in this perpetual world's fair.

Grover

Harry Hopkins' conferences are as good as any, especially since he has become secretary of commerce and so endowed with new governmental dignity.

Forty or more reporters are seated in two rows around a long mahogany table as Hopkins strolls in. He sits down, then nervously bounces up again and a battery of photographers blast away at him.

"Well, Mr. Secretary, what about business?" Hopkins grins that starter away. He knows it is a bit of spoofing, as he hasn't been on the job but a few days.

"What have you to say about 'spend and spend, and tax and tax and elect and elect'?" It is a pert girl reporter questioning him about the statement attributed to him but repeatedly denied by him.

"Arthur Krock is the authority on that," (Mr. Krock of the New York Times is one of the several who attributed to Hopkins the statement that spending, taxing and electing was the business of New Dealers).

"That's the thing the Senate committee will ask you when you come up for confirmation," twitted the girl reporter. Hopkins brushed it aside a bit sourly.

"He'll Wait And See
"What do you think of the general level of commodity prices?" It is another teaser, and he grins.

"Now listen—" he begins, then explains that he isn't going into a long comment on business or the department of commerce until he finds what it is about.

"Have you any definite ideas about the department, or are you just seeking your way around?"

"Of course I have some definite ideas as to criteria that determine whether somebody is a good secretary of commerce. As to anything new, I am asking advice and assistance of everybody I can." He then mentions that he is calling in leading business men for informal conferences—and that is the end of the newspaper stories about the conference.

"What are you doing about subordinates using government boats for pleasure?"

"I told 'em not to ride on them." "Are you planning to reconvene the National Screw Thread commission?" Everybody howls, including Hopkins. It turns out to be a serious question about standardization of threads on pipes and bolts. No answer comes. Hopkins hadn't heard of it.

Believes In Profit System
"Do you believe in the profit system?"

"Now Fred, you're still on a holiday."

Fred: "That's serious." Hopkins, also serious: "Yes."

He is teased about his promotion from a cramped office in the WPA building to a walnut lined throne room in the 20-acre, five-floor giant of a building housing the commerce department.

"I liked my old office much better."

He hasn't been around his huge new domain yet, but grins as he recalls.

"The baby got in (his five-year-old daughter). Somewhere in this building is a fish pond and she came home with the bright idea of fishing out the fishes and making a swimming pool."

Everybody there knows about the winsome tot, whose mother is dead. She spends much time living in the White House.

There are a few random questions about the civil service and appointments.

I am not contemplating a lot of personnel changes," he says, and in that brief statement is much comfort, if only temporary, to flocks of departmental employees.

The thing ends, and the government hasn't fallen, nor been built up much.

Plan Sacred Concert

At Church at Leeman

Leeman—The Young People's Christian Endeavor society of the Congregational church will present a sacred song concert at the church Sunday evening, beginning at 7:45.

The annual meeting of the church officials was not held Sunday evening as scheduled, due to the absence of some of the officers.

At a recent meeting of the Congregational Sunday school, Mrs. Thomas Wilkinson was elected as superintendent of the cradle roll department.

A chill supper and card party were given Friday evening at the pleasant View school. Schmeier, schalkskept and five hundred rum were played. Prizes were won by Donald Strong, Eli Guyette, Miss Clara Rohrer, Abraham Guyette, Mrs. Laurence Clausen and Edward Cummings.

Hobart School Ends

First Half of Year

Rerallton—The officers of the Congregational church will be installed at the regular Sunday service Jan. 29.

Mrs. Herman Hennick entertained a few guests on Wednesday afternoon tying comforts, after which lunch was served.

At the Hobart school the first half of the school year was completed on Friday. Report cards were handed out on Monday. In the citizenship contest which covered a period of six weeks, the upper grades won.

Practice is being held in the Hobart district on several short plays which will be given at the Community meeting the last of the month. The committee in charge, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Stillman, Mr. and Mrs.

SO THAT'S WHAT THE DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR IS FOR

Under the
CAPITOL DOME

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—While the elected representatives of the Republican party wrestle with their woes in the legislature and elsewhere, affairs continue to simmer in the party organization proper.

Two facts have cropped out since the noisy post-inaugural assembly of the party in Madison a few weeks ago at which some of the organization's soiled linen was laundered in public view.

One is that Governor Heil and his administration associates aren't a great deal concerned about the party's internal affairs; another is the fact that the rank and file insurgency, which Lieut. Gov. Walter Goodland recently gave voice in stentorian tones, has not been quieted, although it isn't likely to amount to much for a while.

It may be significant, however, that the king pins in the organization are quietly striving to recapture the appearance of harmony.

Dr. L. F. Gullickson, who with National Committee man Wood a few days ago had a private session with Goodland, insisted that everything is peaceful and fraternal within the party once more.

1940 AGAIN
At the same time there are more indications every week that Republican moguls have their eyes trained eagerly on 1940. If it will interest anybody so far in advance, current party gossip has it that both Walter Kohler and Wood hope to be able to get into position for a senate nomination two years hence. There have been many signals lately that the ex-governor is becoming more active in party affairs.

Whether the present Gullickson-Kohler-Wood-Samp group can retain control of the party's machinery, whether the dissatisfied minor elements will be able to maneuver into power, or whether Heil as time goes on will want the party's gears turned his own way will be one of the most interesting questions to be resolved during the next year.

RURAL NIGHT
As the old hands could have foreseen immediately after the November election, rural Wisconsin carried the day at the organization sessions of the legislative houses last week. Speaker Thomson is a typical product of conservative, rural Richland county. When the lean, alert young man stepped up to the speaker's rostrum he remarked significantly that "enlightened representatives of rural Wisconsin are in control."

Is there a portent in the fact that some of the votes in the Peterson-Thomson fight for the speakership were cast on the wet-dry issue? Thomson is a leading citizen of dry Richland Center.

Over on the other side of the capitol the senate president is the rural businessman and community leader personified. He is Edward F. Roethe, one of Wisconsin's leading country editors, who publishes the Fenimore Times.

Personal Health Talks

NEVER MIND THE THROES

Mother of three children writes: The man who, having witnessed the birth of his only child, decided that there would be no more babies, makes me a little indignant. What had his wife to say about it? And what of the child who had to be brought up an only child?

We have three fine specimens, spaced as we wanted them, but we wanted them, and were planning to have another.

I had the usual long labor, eighteen hours, with instruments used in the last stage, with my first; a normal or normal twelve-hour labor with the second; a six-hour labor with the third.

I wonder if it is wise for a man to see the birth of his child. It may seem bad while we are going through it, but we forget the agony that is past in the present, and since the birth of my first baby I have had no fear of the experience at all. (Mrs. C. H. P.)

The man who told in a letter printed in this column recently of his ordeal in witnessing the birth of his son, expressed the opinion that "if the men were to bear the children there just wouldn't be any."

In the book "I Swear by Apollo," a life of medical adventure, the author, William E. Aughinbaugh, M. D., describes the ritual of couvade in Bolivia, which requires the husband to go to bed, be carefully attended by various members of the family, served with the choicest foods and receive visits of condolence from friends and relations.

The new-born baby being placed in bed with the father. He says this custom originated in the Continent and still prevails among tribes in Russia, Africa and Latin America. At one time it was so general in Europe that there was a saying, "Always take good care of the husband while his wife is giving birth to a baby." Dr. Aughinbaugh attended a confinement with prominent doctor in a comparatively modern house and saw this custom followed just as described. As soon as the baby was born it was washed, dressed and placed in bed with the father, who immediately began to moan and complain of pains. The neighbors hovered around the father's bed, while the family physician looked after the recent mother. "The lady will be up and around the house tomorrow," the doctor remarked. "It is the custom, but her husband will remain on bed ten days with his offspring."

Believe it or not. The book was published by Farrar and Rinehart, Inc., late in 1938. I'll believe it when I see it.

The point I hope all prospective mothers and fathers will get from this is the observation of the Massachusetts mother, that the throes of childbirth are forgotten in the joy that comes with the baby. In my experience nearly all mothers are like that.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
What causes one to crave raw potatoes? Would eating them regularly be injurious? Have asked several doctors this question but received no clear answer. (Mrs. B. D.)

Answer—The craving may be a natural demand for more iron, more calcium, more potassium, more vitamins—all of which are partly lost in cooking. There is no harm in eating any and all vegetables raw, provided they are well washed with soapy water and rinsed with pure water. In fact it is a healthful habit to eat raw potato, carrot, turnip, cabbage, etc., daily. It is healthful to take some raw starch daily (as in vegetables), to maintain a vigorous growth of lactic bacilli in the intestine.

Is glycerin a good application to the lips to prevent chapping in cold weather? (Miss A. T.)

Answer—Not so good as a lip salve which you may make yourself by melting together one ounce of Spermaceti, two ounces of olive oil, one-half ounce of white wax in double boiler. When melted, remove from fire, let cool, then stir in a drop or two of oil of rose geranium and if desired a few drops of essential tincture to tint. Both perfume and tint may be omitted without affecting the cosmetic value of the salve. Apply to lips with fingertip as needed.

Mr. Murphy Tells His Story

Although nearly two years have passed since the sit-down strikes in the Michigan automobile plants, it was not until this week that the main truth has been told about Governor Murphy's policy. The truth is for obvious reasons important. Yet, as I see it, the truth is substantially different both from what Mr. Murphy's critics and Mr. Murphy's partisan supporters seem to think it is.

Reduced to its barest essentials the facts that have to be recalled are these: At the end of December 1936, a few days before Mr. Murphy was inaugurated as Governor of Michigan there began a sit-down strike in some of the General Motors plants. The original position of the company was that while it would permit plant managers to discuss grievances with representatives of the workers, the central management of the company would not engage in collective bargaining. The original demand of the union was that it should be recognized as the sole bargaining agency of all the workers. The sit-down strike began, therefore, at a time when the company was denying the right of collective bargaining and the union, which had never faced an election of the employees, was claiming not only the right of collective bargaining but the right to be treated as the only agent entitled to bargain.

These positions were so hopelessly far apart that for a month, the month of January, 1937, there was a deadlock. The plants were occupied by the sit-down strikers and violence was increasing. During this period the only hope of a negotiated settlement lay in persuading the management to give way by consenting to negotiate and in persuading Mr. Lewis and the union to give up the claim to be the exclusive agent of the employees.

The company was the first to give way. It announced its willingness to negotiate provided the strikers were evacuated. The strikers on the other hand, refused to evacuate unless the CIO union was recognized as sole bargaining agent. Company Reluctant To Seek Court Aid.

It was at this point in the deadlock that the company, which had obtained injunctions but not enforcing orders, reluctantly applied to the courts for an order which would invoke force to evacuate the plants. The reluctance of the General Motors Company is understandable. The company officials realized that the forcible ejection of the strikers might mean bloodshed and no company, especially one engaged in competition to sell cars to workmen all over the country, could fail to shrink from the prospect of bloodshed in the plants. There was no strike at this time, we must remember, in Ford or Chrysler, so General Motors would have borne the whole commercial consequences. That fact, plus the humane sentiments of the management and of the principal local stockholders, undoubtedly explain why the company tolerated the sit-down for nearly a month before applying to the courts for an order which invoked force.

When they did finally go to the courts they accompanied this action by entering into direct negotiations with Mr. Lewis under the auspices of Governor Murphy. This is important because it shows, I think, that the purpose of the company was not to have the strikers ejected by the National Guard but to use the court order as a final threat to compel Mr. Lewis to agree to a basis for the negotiations which the company was now ready to undertake. That this was the real situation is shown, it seems to be, by the fact that the court order was obtained while the Governor's conference was in progress.

Used Court Order to Make Lewis Bend

The disclosures by Mr. Murphy to the Senate Committee now show, and for the first time, what was his real policy in respect to the court order. He used it in private dealings with Mr. Lewis to compel Mr. Lewis to yield enough to make possible a settlement. That is now known. It is known that the Governor held up the enforcement of the order for a few days, less than a week, while he convinced Mr. Lewis that he would enforce it if Mr. Lewis did not give way.

He prepared his own orders to employ force and used them to back up an ultimatum with a time limit. The pressure exerted on Mr. Lewis was such that he went to bed sick, and in his hotel bedroom agreed to a settlement.

That the settlement came after a real concession by Mr. Lewis is shown in the fact that the company promptly issued a statement thanking Governor Murphy "for his unremitting efforts" which had brought about the agreement.

What followed after all this is, it seems to me, the really questionable part of Governor Murphy's conduct. He can hardly be criticized, it seems to me, for not using force when within the short space of a few days he accomplished the object of the court order by the mere threat to use force. But, then, having, in fact, obtained a settlement by an ultimatum to Mr. Lewis which was backed by the threat of force, Mr. Murphy chose not to disclose what he had done. He chose to let it appear as if Mr. Lewis had agreed voluntarily and as if the Governor had ignored the court order when, in fact, he had used the court order as his ace of trumps.

It was not until last week that Mr. Murphy made this disclosure. The question is why he preferred for so long a time to have his actions misunderstood by the general public.

There seems to have been two controlling reasons. The first was that he thought it would make for bad feeling if the story were made public that Mr. Lewis and the union had yielded to an ultimatum. The feeling was bitter in Michigan and the Governor, who is a genuine believer in conciliation, seems to have thought it the part of wisdom to save Mr. Lewis's face. He seems also to have believed that his role as a mediator in labor disputes would be impaired if he destroyed his popularity with labor by publicly humiliating the union leaders.

This reasoning seems, however, to have been reinforced and mixed with the political notion that as a New Dealer it was politically expedient to appear as the firm and unyielding partisan of labor. So Mr. Murphy never told how he had actually settled the strike, and not until ten months later did he venture to make a mild public condemnation of the principle of the sit-down strike.

The decision to save Mr. Lewis's face may well have been a statesmanlike decision to make. But the decision not to condemn the sit-down strike publicly and in unmistakable terms was, I believe, a cardinal error on his part and on the part of the President. It left in doubt something that no government ought ever for a moment to have in doubt; Where it stands on the issue of upholding the law. The refusal to take a clear stand on that issue not only encouraged more sit-down strikes but, by shaking the public confidence, provoked counter-violence in the form of vigilantes and set in motion a dangerous tide of reactionary sentiment.

This was unstatesman-like, and though it was done for political reasons, it was politically unprofitable as well. For the resentment against the toleration of the sit-down strike was certainly one of the two or three causes of the political revolution in November, and the main cause of Governor Murphy's defeat.

So I am left with the conclusion that Mr. Murphy acted wisely and well in the General Motors strike, but that in concealing what he had

All supervisors in Outagamie county, except those from Kaukauna, must run for reelection in spring to hold their positions. Kaukauna elected supervisors last year and the positions are filled in that city every other year.

Symphony Orchestra to Appear In Concert at Chapel Jan. 26

WHEN the Appleton Symphony orchestra appears in concert the evening of Thursday, Jan. 26, at Memorial chapel, the audience will hear a program of marked variety.

The first number will be the well known overture to the opera "Oberon" by Von Weber. The libretto of this opera is founded on the old romance of Sir Huon of Bordeaux. It is upon this same romance that "A Midsummer Night's Dream" is built.

"Oberon" was first produced on April 12, 1826, under the direction of its composer, who was under contract to conduct the first 12 performances. Von Weber's health was in an alarming condition when he left Germany for London, where the opera was presented in the Covent Garden Theatre, and he lived but a few weeks after the expiration of his contract.

While listening to this sparkling overture, one can scarcely imagine that it was written by a man suffering from a fatal malady. The scene of the opera opens in Fairyland, where a bevy of fairies are watching the slumber of Oberon. The fairy king has quarreled with Titania, and has vowed never to be reconciled until he finds two lovers who are constant.

Puck finds these two lovers in Sir Huon of Bordeaux and Regia. He leads them through many vicissitudes, but aided by a magic horn and their constancy, they finally win over obstacles and bring happiness to Oberon and his queen.

At the beginning of the overture, the magic horn call is heard, following by its echo, conjuring up pictures of a fairyland. Then with a sudden crash, the first subject of the allegro con fuoco commences with a rapid figure for violins.

The second subject, first taken by the clarinet and later by the strings, is Sir Huon's song. This is in turn followed by a third subject from Regia's grand scene, "Ocean, Thou Mighty Monster." A short but brilliant coda brings the work to a conclusion.

Frankfurter Busy As He Prepares to Leave for Capital

Cambridge, Mass. — (P) — The task of getting "odds and ends" in order today kept Felix Frankfurter busy as he awaited "marching orders" before taking his place on the United States Supreme court bench.

The new associate justice, confirmed yesterday by the senate, planned to leave for Washington tonight, accompanied by Mrs. Frankfurter, to attend the president's annual dinner to members of the supreme court at the White House tomorrow.

Taking leave of his Harvard law school students yesterday, Frankfurter said: "This is the last time that I shall speak to you in this classroom. I should like you to know that it is not an easy thing for me to go to Washington. While there, I shall think of you often."

"If you will in June and a very full life thereafter."

Then he ran quickly from the room.

A few minutes before, Thomas Reed Powell, a colleague, had slipped an envelope into Frankfurter's hand, containing news of the state's confirmation. Without interrupting a class discussion, the new justice thanked Powell, and, with the shadow of a smile, stuffed the envelope into his pocket.

Interest in the local election was rising today when more names were mentioned for various posts and the total running for aldermanic positions is expected to exceed 75 before the filing deadline, Feb. 22.

Robert DeLand, incumbent first ward alderman, today took out papers to represent the new Fourteenth ward under the 13-ward plan. His only opponent so far is George F. Werner, 837 E. South street.

Another vacant place in the primary ballot was filled today when Richard VanWyk, 744 E. Hancock street, announced his candidacy for supervisor of the Third ward, now a part of the First ward. The only board position left without a candidate is the supervisory job in the Fifteenth ward.

4-Cornered Fight
A 4-cornered fight for the aldermanic job in the Seventeenth ward developed today with the candidacy of Lyman B. Clark, 1520 W. Franklin street. He will be opposed by the incumbent, Alderman McGilgan, Albert H. Schumann, 1137 W. Pack street, and George Leemhuis, 1209 W. Lorain street.

Walter F. Fountain, 620 W. Fifth street, took out papers to represent the new Tenth ward, which will be formed from a part of the Third ward. He is the third candidate for the post along with the incumbent, Alderman Grignon, and Peter P. Volmer, 838 W. Prospect avenue.

Newsman Refutes Mexican Charges

Says He Was Made 'Butt Of Move to Crack Down On Correspondents'

Brownsville, Texas.—(P)—Frank L. Kluckhorn, New York Times correspondent who was expelled by Mexico, said today the United States embassy at Mexico City had made photostatic copies of credentials showing he entered the southern republic properly.

The government press bureau at Mexico City stated last night Kluckhorn entered the country "in violation of an order of immigration authorities" and charged Kluckhorn "maliciously interpreted" Mexico's policies. The newsman, who came here by plane, said he would remain several days.

Facts Not Denied
"Over a period of two full years in the Mexican republic I have sent hundreds of news stories. The Mexican government during that period had not denied the facts in these stories. I think that speaks for itself," Kluckhorn said.

Kluckhorn said he had been "merely made the butt of a general move to crack down on the American press correspondents in Mexico." Kluckhorn said a United Press correspondent had been warned by the chief of the official press bureau that "there is no interest in the outside world" about Mexico deals with Germany.

"The United Press has just been fined 5,000 pesos by the Mexican government and other correspondents were severely reprimanded last week," he said.

Millman is now confined to his home. The circuit court recently appointed a guardian for him.

Second Trial Up To Washington in Mine Bomb Case

Convicted Men in Illinois Have 20 Days to Ask Rehearing

Springfield, Ill.—(P)—The United States district attorney's office said today a decision on whether a second trial would be held on a third indictment in connection with Illinois mine and railroad bombing case rested with federal officials at Washington.

Twenty-four of the 34 men whose conviction for conspiracy to violate the Sherman anti-trust and obstruction of the mails acts was upheld by the circuit court of appeals at Chicago yesterday also are named in an indictment charging violation of the anti-racketeering act.

Federal officials here said the convicted men, all members or sympathizers of the Progressive Miners' union, have 20 days in which to ask a rehearing. Defense attorneys said they would appeal to the United States Supreme Court if the review is denied.

The prosecutor's office also said it was unknown here whether William Keck of East St. Louis, former union president, would be tried. Named in all three indictments, Keck was given a mistrial when he became seriously ill during the month and a half trial late in 1937.

Paul Plunkett, special attorney in the department of justice, who worked on the case from the grand jury investigation through the hearing in the circuit court of appeals, has returned to Washington.

The anti-racketeering indictment, the first to be returned under a new federal statute, charged the men sought to force by violence the mine operators to recognize and sign contracts with the Progressive Miners' union.

Pending final disposal of the case, the 34 men will remain at liberty under bond.

Announces Pledges For Nationwide Sales Campaign for Cheese

Madison.—(P)—Pledges from cheese distributors to contribute between $10,000 and $15,000 for a nationwide sales campaign for Wisconsin cheese were announced today by Wilbur G. Carlson, manager of the Wisconsin Agricultural authorities.

These funds, supplementing the state appropriation, will make the drive the largest effort put forth for a dairy commodity of this state, Carlson said.

"Besides permitting a much larger campaign, it is a significant boost for Wisconsin producers to have national assistance," he said. "We are going right out and contact the key distributors so that they will get behind the program as vigorously as we do."

Carlson estimated 2,000,000 pieces of sales material will be distributed through 200,000 retail outlets to create greater demand for American, Swiss, Brick and other brands of Wisconsin cheese.

"We have the support of national retail and wholesale grocers organizations that will carry the campaign to all parts of the country," Carlson said.

Another Dose of Snow Is Expected

City, County Crews Busy Clearing Roads After Heavy Fall

"O' man winter continued to 'pour it on' today and more snow is expected in Appleton and vicinity tonight. A few days back, snow and ice were conspicuous by their absence but 44 inches of snow during the 24 hours preceding 9 o'clock this morning has more than made up for the unusual deficiency.

City crews went to work early this morning to clear the streets of snow and sand dangerous intersections and hills. The snow loading machine was being used on College avenue and Oneida street.

County workmen had their hands full to keep roads from drifting shut but all state and federal highways, though slippery, were considered in good condition.

Along with the snow came comparatively mild temperatures, the coldest mark in the 24 hours preceding 9 o'clock this morning being 14 degrees and the highest was 22 degrees, according to records at the power plant of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company.

Highest and lowest temperatures in the nation yesterday were at Miami with 74 degrees and Devil's Lake, N. D., with 16 degrees below zero, according to the Associated Press.

Hunt for Slayer and Motive In Mystery Hammer Killing Of Woman in Indianapolis

Indianapolis.—(P)—Detectives looked for a man and a motive today in the mysterious hammer slaying of blonde, attractive Mrs. Carrie Lelah Romig, 55-year-old wife of a young ten-cent store lunch room employee.

Mrs. Romig, formerly married to a wealthy Hoosier manufacturer, was found dead last night on a bed in her five-room, first-floor flat on the near north side of Washington street.

Deputy Coroner Norman Booher said she had been struck on the right temple and forehead with a small claw hammer which lay nearby broken in two.

Investigators followed two leads: (1) A statement of the dead woman's husband, Daniel Romig, 28, that several diamond rings and other jewelry were missing from the apartment.

(2) Evidence that a man she knew had called on her some time in the day.

Police placed a vagrancy charge against Romig so they might hold him for questioning.

Front Door Open
Dr. Booher, who recommended a homicide verdict to Coroner E. R. Wilson, indicated Mrs. Romig had not been criminally assaulted.

The husband found the body when he returned home from work. The front door was open. Cigarette stubs, candy and two nearly empty coffee cups were in the living room. The death hammer had been taken from the pantry.

Detective Sergeant Jesse McCarthy of the police homicide squad said Romig told him his wife was in bed when he kissed her goodbye and left yesterday morning for work. He said she seemed cheerful.

Mrs. Clara Corey, 60, who lives in the building, told McCarthy she had directed a stranger man to the Romig apartment at 8:30 or 9 a. m. She said she talked to him over the banister and did not get a good look at him.

Work Is Started On Power Project

Public Service Commission Approves Kaukauna Undertaking

Kaukauna.—The Wisconsin Public Service commission at Madison today authorized the city to repair and operate the Outagamie Power company dam in the north channel of the Fox river and to improve its water power at a cost of about $400,000. Work on the project was started this morning.

The project will include construction of a hydro-electric plant at the site of the old paper mill, repair of the headrace walls and excavation of the tailrace to develop a head of 22 feet of water.

"Repair, extension, operation and maintenance of the dam will not materially obstruct existing navigation or violate other public rights and will not endanger life, health or property," the commission ruled.

The city had previously acquired the right to divert 100 per cent of the flow of the river, less that required for navigation. It obtained the dam site at a sheriff's sale for about $65,500.

the large truck used for hauling the snow went down through the ice. Several hours were required Saturday and on Sunday to bring the truck to shore.

The same day when Mrs. Phil Darling who lives on the shore of the lake went for her daily skate on the lake, she went down through a drift of snow and into the shallow water underneath.

Defenders Had Chance To Beat Bid

BY ELY CULBERTSON

Despite the fact that the first annual bridge examination, held in 1937, contained many questions which involved forcing passes, and many others that involved trap passes, these particular bidding coups still elude the public at large. Given a good hand, the average player can no more resist making a series of bids on it than he can resist a chance to pick up the proverbial pocketbook on April Fool's day. This trait was proved even by several questions of the recent second annual examination. Question 41 was one of them:

Only East-West are vulnerable. North-South have 40 part-score. The bidding proceeds:

South West North East
1diamond Pass 2clubs 2spades
You are South and hold:

▲ 10 6 3 ♥ A Q 9 ♠ K Q J 9 8 6 2

What call do you make and why? The correct answer was that South should pass. Thousands of examiners gave three diamonds as south's correct action, and hundreds of them backed this bid up by elaborating that they would thus try to cash in on their part-score. The official answer, which appeared a week after the examination, pointed out that South's partner, North, was just as much aware of the score as was South and that he hardly would pass to two spades unless he had a miserable hand. The main point involved was that South should not bid North of the opportunity to double the vulnerable two spade bid which might well have been a "push" based on East's desperate effort to forestall the opponents' going game in a low contract. Such a pass on South's part is the epitome of generalship and strategy, being both technically and psychologically sound. These part-score situations present wonderful opportunities for the application of pure logic and I commend them to readers' attention.

The answers that reached me on this question lined up as follows: 12,867 bid three diamonds; 7,145 correctly passed; 28 brave souls doubled.

Incidentally a 20 point demerit was given for any bid other than a pass. This demerit, of course, also applied to a double which was, to put it mildly, a bad aggressive.

The bidding:

West East South West
1diamond 1heart 1no trump Pass

Pass Pass

West opened the top card of his partner's suit, the heart eight. A low card was played from dummy, and East put up the king. East returned a heart which dummy's ace won. The diamond finesse was successfully negotiated and then the declarer knocked out the club ace. West had no heart left to return, hence declarer could concede the spade ace at his own leisure and claim ten tricks.

East and West sighed and agreed that nothing could have been done about this lost rubber. As it happened they probably were wrong.

If East had not put up the heart king at the first trick, declarer later would have had to make a sheer guess for the fulfillment of his contract. Just suppose East played the heart nine or jack as an encouraging signal. Declarer would win with the ten or queen, but if he then guessed to lead a club (instead of a spade), West could hop up with the club ace and return his remaining heart. East's heart suit thus would be established before the spade ace was removed and, although declarer could run four diamonds, two clubs, and two hearts, he never could win a spade trick. Of course, if declarer, after winning the first heart trick, guessed to knock out the spade ace, the defenders would be helpless, but at least they would have done their best.

The soil you use in these indoor hotbeds is mighty important. A fairly rich soil which feels loose and fibrous in your hand is best. You can use peat moss, leaf mold, or sand to mix with the soil in case what you have on hand isn't just right.

And another thing, don't add fertilizer just before planting any seed.

Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

This discouraged woman was taught how to dramatize her middle-age beauty. Her youthful coiffure by Monsieur Georges is a splendid model for women of middle age.

This is a modern Cinderella story which should inspire many women throughout the country to make the most of their beauty!

And for once Cinderella is not a young girl with youth and beauty hiding under a bushel, but a despondent woman of middle age who actually looked ten to fifteen years older than she was!

She had dropped into a Fifth avenue salon to have her hair dyed. Despondently she said: "I'm just the same age as my husband but I look years older. Friends say it is because my hair has turned grey and his has not. So I have finally decided to have it dyed. Will you do it for me?"

The able beauty consultant gazed critically at her client. Her skin was tired looking with a coarse texture of enlarged pores and blackheads. Her eyes were dull, reflecting the disheartened spirit! Little did she realize that if her hair was dyed she would only look more haggard, more hard. What she actually needed was a good going-over to give her dejected morale a boost.

So skin treatment was suggested first. And effective it was! The particular salon to which our Cinderella had come, boasts a novel beauty angle treatment which consists of having a facial while you recline with your feet twenty inches higher than your head! This permits a fresh flow of nourishing blood to tired facial and neck tissue which rarely gets what it needs.

With a special preparation for blackheads—which is applied as a paste and allowed to dry on the face and then vigorously rubbed off—the coarse, neglected surface skin was removed. A lubricating cream and firming mask did the rest. After six facials (which my woman could give herself at

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane
Psychologist, Northwestern University

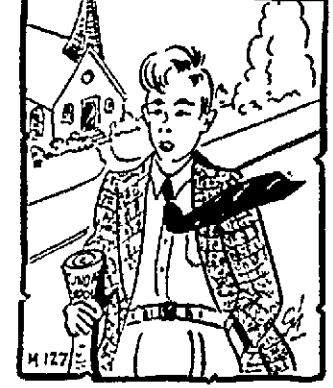

Gordon's father got sour on church attendance when he was a youth, so he has openly scoffed at such things ever since. Now he comes to me, hoping that I can perform some psychological magic and thereby salvage his delinquent son.

CASE M-127: Gordon T. aged 14, is a juvenile delinquent.

"I was referred to you, Dr. Crane, in a last hope of changing my son's outlook on life," Gordon's father pleaded.

"He has been convicted of belonging to a gang of youthful thieves, and I regret to say that Gordon has stolen on many occasions.

"Perhaps I haven't been able to give him the attention which he deserved, but isn't it possible to change a youth, even though he has started along the wrong path?"

DIAGNOSIS:

Yes, it is always possible, but not so probable. Criminality is never inherited. It is simply the mass of wrong habits that have been allowed to develop over a period of years.

Morality, on the other hand, is also not inherited. It must be taught our children by somebody. And one lesson is not sufficient. It requires hundreds of lessons, year in and year out, before a moral individual can be produced.

In contemporary America, 51 per cent of the people do not belong to any church. They don't send their children to Sunday school. Yet the church is the only organization whose primary concern is planning a sense of ethical values in the minds of our youth.

While the Scout Masters, and the public school teachers cooperate in teaching honesty and good citizenship, the primary source of such instruction is still the home and the church.

How is your home? If you wantonly deprive your child of the right to receive moral instruction from your neighborhood church, then you have a double obligation

Children Need Guidance in Reading the Bible Correctly

BY ANGELO PATRI

"We agree," writes a mother interested in teaching children the good way of living, "that the Bible is invaluable in child education, but some of us here would like to have a few words on how to use it."

I agree that it is not easy to use the Bible intelligently in the education of children, but it is not really difficult when one thinks it over. I like to begin with the old story. Children love the story of the Creation, the Garden, the naming of the animals. That story can be read over and over again. It has to be, until there dawns an appreciation of the personal relationship of the individual child to the Creator.

The story of Moses is fascinating, the wandering in the wilderness, the Ten Commandments. I would teach all children those commandments as a guide for life.

Joseph and his Brethren, Esther, Daniel, Daniel is a boy's hero and his life pattern a fine one for them. The Psalms are to be searched for comforting verses. I like the First Psalm, the Twenty-third, the Ninety-first; and I would coax, cajole, drive and wheedle children into learning them for use in the day of tribulation.

During the recent flood in New England a lone woman faced the destruction of her farm, her all. Friends called her saying, "Leave the house and come up here to safety." But she clung to her home. As the water rose, creeping ever nearer her doorstep, she groaned, "God, you couldn't let this happen to me." And she heard very distinctly, "It shall not come nigh thy dwelling." A verse out of her childhood had spoken, and she was content. The flood did not touch her.

In the moment of distress a Bible verse sustained her.

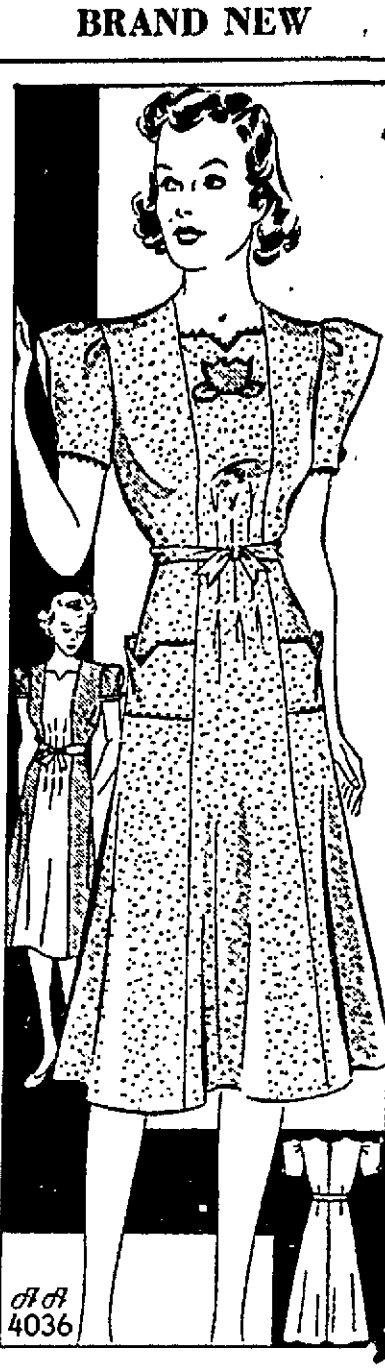

The stories of the New Testament are fine. Children love the Parables. Every one of them holds treasure for children and old age. I would try to have children learn the Fifth chapter of Matthew, the Sermon on the Mount, and try, harder, to have them live by it. The Bible is a history of the human race; its weakness and wickedness, its strength, courage, faith, nobleness, are all there, written in beautiful language. The Bible is literature. It contains great poetry. It holds challenge and inspiration for the human soul. One finds there what one needs, and one may overlook what he does not need without loss.

The begats are of interest only to Bible Scholars. They are of no interest to children, or to most of us grown people. There are chapters and verses of interest only to specialists of one sort or another. They, too, can be skipped without loss. What we need from the Bible is its strong drive to righteousness, its clear direction to walk in the way of Truth and Beauty.

The Stories of the Bible, versions that select what children can read easily, and profit by directly, are easy to read and easy to use. Teachers and parents who want to use the Bible can well begin with such helps. It is only the matured, trained reader who can read straight through the Bible with profit. Children need selected bits, the dramatic stories, the musical Psalms and the Parables, first. Give them a taste of good Bible reading and they will go the rest of the way themselves.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

THE CHARACTERS

Noel Marchand, a beautiful young actress.

Allan Collins, a young man Noel likes.

Mrs. Marchand, Allan's mother, not related to Noel.

Yesterday: Mrs. Marchand's sapphire bracelet is stolen.

Chapter 10

A KISS RETURNED

"I don't want to believe that anyone in this house would take my bracelet—but where could it have gone?"

Mrs. Marchand sat in a window chair in her room with a breakfast tray before her. She poured Noel some coffee and sipped slowly from her own cup. Her face had a troubled look, her voice a worried tone. The sudden disappearance of the valuable jewelry was a disappointing aftermath to the successful Christmas house party.

"I still believe you'll find it," Noel suggested. She wasn't so sure.

After a night of intermittent snatches of sleep she had come into Mrs. Marchand's bedroom, hoping the bracelet had been found.

"Are you certain you left it in the dressing table?" Noel asked.

"I am, or I wouldn't have spoken about it. I took it out of the safe yesterday morning, intending to wear it at dinner. Annie said it on the table. So did Jennie, who came up to make my bed. I didn't think about it again until last night when I was ready to retire and I realized it was gone."

Noel walked to the window. A light snowfall during the night had made a fresh white carpet for the grounds. She was thinking that everyone of them—why, even she—was under suspicion.

"What do you intend to do?" she asked Mrs. Marchand.

Elsie and Janice had already gone back to town. She couldn't believe either of them had taken the bracelet. But then which among the others could be guilty? Surely not Mrs. Barton. Nor for that matter, Mr. Whitaker. Not even Tommy Sheldon, who had seemed so contented making the snow buildings for little Jimmy. And certainly not Jimmy's mother, so grateful for the holiday refuge.

"I want to speak to Allan before I do anything," Mrs. Marchand put down her cup. "It would be a horrible thing to ruin the visit for the innocent ones—they've seemed so happy here."

Noel felt somehow to blame. And wasn't it something like this Allan had suggested when he opposed their putting the advertisement in the paper?

A knock on the door interrupted their conversation. To Mrs. Marchand's "Come in," Allan entered the room. He was dressed in tweeds and his face had a fresh healthy look as though he'd been walking in the cold morning.

Allan kissed his mother and turned to his guest remarked, "Good morning, Noel; aren't you up rather early?"

"Evidently not as early as you," Noel responded with a forced smile. She started to leave the room. Mrs. Marchand halted her. "Wait, dear, we'd better tell Allan about it."

Allan glanced from one to the other. Reaching into his pocket, he said nonchalantly:

"Oh, mother, I almost forgot. I picked this up on the floor yesterday and forgot to return it to you."

He handed his mother the glittering bracelet. "You shouldn't be so careless with your baubles."

"Foolish Suspicion"

Mrs. Marchand cried out in surprised relief. "I thought someone had taken it! That's what Noel and I were talking about." Turning to Noel, "I'm so sorry I was mistaken—and happy my foolish suspicions were wrong."

They were off his hands' love had passed him by.

Financial Reasons Account For Swelling Bachelor Ranks

BY DOROTHY DIX

A correspondent wants to know why there are more bachelors now than there used to be. She says that women are better looking, better dressed, better educated, more attractive than they ever were, yet they find it harder and harder to get husbands. Men enjoy women's society as much as they ever did. They like to play around with them and tread a merry social round with them, but they are bridal-shy and it takes skill, finesse and luck to drag one to the altar.

Well, the increase in the number of bachelors may be accounted for in several ways. First, on financial grounds. After all, matrimony is a matter of money to a great extent, and the poor boy on a shoestring salary can no more afford to get up a wife than he can a yacht. Youth is the mating time of life. It is the time when the blood runs hot in the veins and a man can see the angel of his dreams in any girl in a white dress. If he cannot marry then but has to put it off until his pulses have slowed down and he is more than likely not to marry at all.

Of course, our forefathers didn't put off marriage until they had the price, but marriage wasn't the expensive proposition then that it is now. Young couples didn't expect to start out where their parents were leaving off, and domestic bliss did not depend upon the possession of automobiles and radios, fine clothes and sessions at the beauty shop.

But right or wrong, we have our acquired tastes and habits, and so when the modern Romeo figures out that the income that supplies luxuries for one would mean poverty and hard-sledding for two and more, and he has to decide between Juliet and a new car, it is not surprising that he is faithful to his deathless passion for himself and buys the streamlined automobile.

Another reason why men do not marry is because they do not have to. In former days a wife was a necessity. Now she is an ornamental fringe on life. The poor bachelor who had worried and sickened of club and restaurant and boarding-house cooking, who had no one to darn his socks, or send out his laundry, or nurse him when he was sick, or keep up with his engagements, was practically driven into marriage to get some one to take care of him.

But now when every apartment house has its bachelor quarters, its valet services that supply his wants with an efficiency that few wives possess, and where a man can come and go as he pleases without being

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

TWO ATTENDANTS

Dear Mrs. Post: My best girl friend has always, since we were half-grown, understood that when the day came she would be the maid of honor at my wedding. It so happens that my fiancée and I hadn't counted on having to wait so many years to be married, and meantime my very young and only sister has caught up with us and she would now be old enough to be my attendant. Since it is you who say that a bride who is not wearing brides' clothes should have only one attendant, will you now help me to decide whether to choose my sister or my lifelong friend. It isn't easy to hurt the feelings of either!

Answer: It is true that a bride who does not wear bridal clothes is not supposed to have more than one attendant, but on occasion this rule is relaxed and the two bridesmaids, walking together, are considered as making only one unit. It would be impossible therefore to have your sister and your best friend walk together. They should, of course, be dressed exactly alike, even though they wear street clothes.

A PRESENT FROM THE OFFICE?

Dear Mrs. Post: Mr. Brown, my employer, and Mrs. Brown too, are always so good to the four of us who work in his office. Again this Christmas they gave us lovely gifts. We have never done anything for either of them, thinking of course that it would be unsuitable if we did. But we all feel how much we appreciate them and the way they have always treated us, and since they will have their china wedding anniversary soon, is there anything we could do at that time? And what? Could we send them some plates?

Answer: If you happen to know anything about Mrs. Brown's taste in china, a dozen or a set of eight plates (three — or two, from each of you) would be very nice indeed to send them from you four together. Plates are always a lovely present because no matter how many she may have, an occasional change in table setting is as pleasant as a change of menu. As a matter of fact, china is one of the most tempting things manufactured to day and by no means necessarily expensive. I add this because I think you would make the Browns very uncomfortable if you bought them something of too great value.

Plans for Sewer Project are Sent To WPA Officials

2,100-Foot Interceptor Is Proposed for Third Ward

New London—A W.P.A. project for the installation of a new Third ward interceptor sewer was formally approved by the city council last night and ordered sent to W.P.A. headquarters at Green Bay for approval and acceptance as a project.

As proposed by City Engineer Robert M. Connelly, the project would provide an interceptor line 2,100 feet long from Montiel street to the Wolf river connecting the loose east ends of all intercepting streets. Total cost is estimated at $9,569 with the city's share of $2,735 supplied largely in machine and equipment rentals with a direct cash outlay of about $650.

Included in the work would be the relaying of 200 feet of sewer on Bruce street which now empties into the Mill street sewer. The project also provides for new manholes at the end of each intercepting street.

Residents on connecting streets or near the new line will have an opportunity to join their homes to the system by petitioning the council and paying an assessment for the private installation. The new line is designed only as a sanitary system, not to handle storm and roof waters, Connelly warned the council.

Will Buy New Truck
After lengthy discussions on the damage to the city truck which tipped over last week, the alderman on motion by William Litts decided to abandon the old truck and trade it for a new one on bids to be opened next week. Discovery of new repairs together with the need of a new cab and a new set of tires totaling about $500 caused the city fathers to decide in favor of a new machine.

On advice of City Attorney Giles H. Putnam, the council ordered revoked several court orders for the removal of relief families to Waupaca, the city of their legal residence. Because no action was taken on the order and the persons concerned would not return, Putnam advised they be allowed to remain here and the relief costs be charged back to the Town of Lind.

Complaints of lack of adequate toilet facilities at Labor hall were reported by Chief of Police Harry D. Macklin and referred to the board of health.

The appointment of Victor Thomas as city building inspector for the year 1939 was approved.

Council Accepts Bid on Floodway

Koepke Firm Will Do Work: State Will Pay All Costs

New London—A contract submitted by the Koepke Brothers construction company of Appleton to dig the floodway course north of the city for $4,425 was accepted by the city council at its regular meeting at the city hall last night.

The contract will provide everything and all costs will be paid by the state highway department.

Easements for the city's right of way over property extending to the west city limits will be sought by City Attorney Giles H. Putnam and necessary action to complete the right of way will be taken at an adjourned meeting next Tuesday.

Because there has been difficulty in securing easements over the Rasmussen property west of the city limits, present call for an extension of the floodway ditch only to the west limits. City Engineer Robert M. Connelly explained the improvement would eliminate about three-fourths of the flood water problem.

The course will be dug 300 feet wide from about 400 feet east of Highway 45 to a total of 3,900 feet westward, requiring the removal of about 19,658 cubic yards of earth. Properties to be crossed are those of E. J. Jost, Mrs. Anna M. Munsen, Tony Sayhoun and F. E. Patchen. Condemnation proceedings will be started if necessary to gain right of way.

Capener Chairman Of Birthday Ball

Program Plans Will Be Outlined at Meeting Friday Night

New London—Attorney Ormond W. Capener was appointed New London chairman of President Roosevelt's annual birthday ball program by Judge A. M. Scheller.

Waupaca county chairman, yesterday and immediately announced a meeting of interested workers from each organization in the city to be held at the city hall at 7:30 Friday evening to plan a fund raising program.

Dances have never proven very profitable in the city, Capener pointed out, and has asked all delegates to the meeting to bring ideas and to be prepared to work as a committee member.

Under a new setup, half the funds raised will go to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis to finance further research on the disease, and the other half will go to the county committee for administration as a county-wide program.

Members of the county committee for Aid to Crippled Children report that New London has fallen down on its contributions while the city leads in the number of cases assisted, Capener said. A report on the local fund will be given at the meeting Friday night.

Bill for Sugar Cuts Surplus in Yule Fund

New London—The cost of the 1938 Associated Charities' Christmas basket program rose above receipts and ate into last year's surplus when a late bill of $30.50 for sugar was received after the records were closed, General Chairman Ormond W. Capener reported at a final meeting of the executive committee and committee chairman at Washington high school Monday evening. The cash surplus now stands at $107.34 compared to the balance of $124.77 left over the year before. The amount will be left on deposit for future emergency.

Chairman Capener extended thanks and appreciation to assisting chairmen and committee workers and announced plans to draw up a detailed description of the functions of each committee to be used as a working plan for future chairmen and committee groups.

If you live where there is lots of snow, don't forget to feed the birds. Sprinkle crumbs on the snow and fasten a large piece of fat or suet on a tree. You will be well rewarded by the friendliness of your feathered neighbors.

Students on PTA Meeting Program

Dances, Playlets, Games
Take Place at River
Road School

A program of dances, playlets and games took place at the meeting of River Road school Parent Teacher's association Friday night at the school. Jeanne Spielbauer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Spielbauer, 1623 W. Reeve street, gave two tap dances. Dorcas Korth presented a play, "Motoring," and a skit, "The Kid Brother," was put on by John Sturm and Audrey Korth.

A flower guessing contest was won by Joyce Kimball, Pearl Spielbauer, Mrs. J. Korth and Mrs. F. Spring. Schafkopf and games provided other entertainment, prizes going to Evelyn Korth and Audrey Korth. Mrs. M. Eichen and Mrs. John Sturm served the lunch.

All of those present were pictured labels or articles representing the months in which they were born. The next meeting will be Feb. 3.

The Misses Margaret, Rosanna and Agnes Vanden Boogard, town of Vandenboeck, entertained a group of friends Sunday afternoon at their home. Cards and games provided entertainment. Those present were the Misses Geraldine Evers, Appleton; Minnie Joosten, Delia and Martha Spierings, Rosella Evers and Margaret Ebben, all of the town of Vandenboeck.

Mrs. William Hoelzel, town of Vandenboeck, has returned to her home from St. Elizabeth Hospital where she was confined by illness for the last few weeks.

Icing Only Top Half Of Car Bunkers Cuts Fruit Transit Costs

Most of the winter and early spring fruits and vegetables are shipped long distances in refrigerator cars and costs of keeping these cars cold cuts growers' profits and adds to consumer cost.

Refrigeration specialists of the federal department of agriculture observed that cooling rates fall rapidly as the ice melted to lower levels in bunkers at each end of the refrigerator car. Department workers raised the ice rack from the floor so that only the top half of the bunkers would be filled with ice. Shipments in such cars are cooled before shipment, arrived at their destination in good shape, according to a department report received by J. F. Magnus, county agricultural agent.

By upper-half bunker icing all the ice can be utilized whereas with full bunker icing that in the lower half not only gives little or no cooling but, if left at the end of a trip, has to be thrown out or wasted.

Find Wheat Insurance Popular in the East

Wheat growers east of the Mississippi river are heavy participants in federal crop insurance this year, according to a crop reporting service bulletin received by J. F. Magnus, county agricultural agent.

This is somewhat of a surprise, says Leroy E. Smith, manager of the Federal Crop Insurance corporation. In the original thinking on crop insurance it was believed the plan would be confined principally to the great plains states.

Another unexpected development has been the fact that while the principle of calculating premiums in terms of wheat has been readily accepted by growers, most of them have preferred to make their payments in cash, rather than in wheat. This says Mr. Smith, has been a pleasant surprise because it simplifies administration of the program. The cash payments are readily turned into stored wheat as an insurance reserve.

Two Fruit Schools to Be Conducted Friday

STICHTMAN HERD HAS OUTSTANDING COW FAMILY

The above cow family, found in the herd of Herman Stichtman, Maple Creek, is one of the outstanding ones in Outagamie county and in the state, according to J. F. Magnus, county agricultural agent. The cow at the right is the old cow and the others her daughters. Their names are records for twice a day milking 305-day equivalent are: left to right; Opal Colantha Ormsby, 15,611 pounds of milk, containing 544.2 pounds of butterfat; Sweet Susan Ormsby, 12,531 pounds of milk containing 542.9 pounds of butterfat; Beets De Kol Colantha Ormsby, 17,188 pounds of milk containing 561.9 pounds of butterfat; and Ervine Colantha, 17,367 pounds of milk containing 770.4 pounds of butterfat.

Cow Testing Work Determines Persistent Producers in Herd

In cow testing association work, farmers determine the production of their cows for the purpose of weeding out the unprofitable animals and for increasing the offspring from the outstanding individuals, according to J. F. Magnus, Outagamie county agricultural agent.

An outstanding animal is not necessarily an animal with a high production record for one year, but one that produces over a long period of years, known commonly as a persistent producer. Magnus points out. In these outstanding animals it is sought to determine the ability of the animal to stamp high production on her offspring.

Persistent production is wanted because even a good animal must produce about two years before she pays her owner for the expense of raising her from a calf to maturity. Her profit must be made from that time on. An animal with a combination of acceptable type, high production over a long period of years and ability to pass on to her offspring these features is one highly valued by the owner.

A cow's ability to produce consistently with a large number of daughters or sons carrying on the good work is commonly referred to as a brood cow. The offspring together with the cow is known as a cow family, Magnus said.

Cow Family

An outstanding cow family is found in the Herman Stichtman, Maple Creek, herd. The old cow, Ervine Colantha Ormsby, is now 15 years old and during her last lactation produced 16,146 pounds of milk with a test of 3.97 per cent and containing 641 pounds of butterfat. This compares favorably with the average cow in the state which produces about 100 pounds of butterfat, according to Magnus.

Ervine Colantha Ormsby has four daughters of milking age. One of them has just completed her second lactation and produced 727.6 pounds of butterfat which on a mature basis would be approximately 770.4 pounds. The other three daughters have all produced over 500 pounds of butterfat which is almost three times as much as the average Wisconsin cow.

"This cow family is one of the outstanding examples, the value of which can be recognized only through cow testing association work," Magnus said. "Animals not tested would not prove themselves to be outstanding as no one would ever know what the actual records were. It is through continual testing of herds that cow families are proved and outstanding animals are recognized. After recognizing these great animals, herds can be built from them."

Vikings Bow In Overtime

Beloit Ties Game at 34- All With Four Seconds Left to Play

Special to Post-Crescent
BELOIT—Lawrence college lost its second Midwest conference game to Beloit college in an overtime, 41-36, at Smith gym last night. With four seconds to go in the game, Lawrence led 34-32. A push shot under the basket by Jack Griffith, sophomore star for Beloit, tied the score. Beloit then went ahead to win in the overtime.

With a total of 42 fouls being called it was one of the hardest played games here in a long time. Twenty-four fouls were called on Lawrence and five men were ejected while 18 misdeeds were called on Beloit with two men being put out.

Schade, Viking center, opened the scoring for the visitors with a rebound shot and from then until the closing seconds of the game the score was often tied but Lawrence never was behind and led 21-17 at the half period. Lawrence held a 9-point margin shortly after the start of the second half.

Up against a tight one defense, Beloit found itself unable to get any shots, with all its shooting hurried. Beloit took 58 shots at the basket and sank 14 while Lawrence made 11 out of 60 attempts.

Get Free Throws
The Vikings' superiority on the free throw line nearly won the game for them for they sank 14 out of 21 attempts while the Blue Devils sank only 13 out of 29 attempts. Joe Tamulis was high scorer for Beloit with 12 points while Faldie topped the scorers for Lawrence with 10 points. Always a threat to the Beloit defense were the one-handed shots of Novakowski who was the sparkplug for the visitors.

The play which found Beloit tying up the game started with Tamulis tipping the ball to Smith on a jump ball with eight seconds to go. Smith, sophomore forward, worked the ball down to Griffith in the corner who faked around him and, with four seconds to go, tied up the ball game.

Beloit had no trouble winning in the overtime period with Van Wynegarden, substitute guard, sinking a long and a short shot for four points. Hoegberg capitalizing on a free throw and Tamulis putting in an overhead shot from the side. Faldie and Jackson scored a free toss apiece for Lawrence.

The box score:

Olympic Skating Trials Open Today

Fowler Lake Course Is Shaved and Cracks Filled With Water

Oconomowoc — (P) — Workmen gave the Fowler lake course a final grooming as officials announced the United States Olympic speed skating team trials definitely would get underway today.

National blade stars had grumbled over the roughness of the ice and there had been rumors the meet might be delayed but Grover Petersen of Milwaukee, Olympic committee member and president of the Wisconsin Skating association, declared the 500 meter race would begin at 1:30 p. m. as scheduled.

Officials pronounced the course in satisfactory condition after the surface was shaved and the cracks filled with water.

Candidates for berths on the 1940 Olympic team will race against time, only two being permitted on the course at the same time and each assigned to a particular lane. Pairings were to be made prior to the start of the competition.

At a meeting of race officials last night Petersen announced the eight Olympic team members would be chosen as follows:

First position—To the winner of the 500 meter race; second position, winner of the 1,500 meter event; third, 5,000 meter winner; fourth, 10,000 meter winner; fifth, best time average for 500 and 1,500 meters; sixth, best time average for 5,000 and 10,000 meters; seventh, best time average 500, 1,500 and 5,000 meters; eighth, best time average for all four events.

One of the 500 meter trials is scheduled for today, and the remaining two Thursday. The 5,000 meter race will be held Jan. 21 and 22, and 1,500 meter event Jan. 24 and 25, and the 10,000 meter race Jan. 26.

Stevens Point Teacher Cager Is Protested

Milwaukee—A protest of the eligibility of Fred Numa, Stevens Point State Teachers college basketball ace, was before the conference eligibility committee today, it was learned here.

The protest was reported lodged by the Milwaukee State Teachers college faculty representative after an affidavit had been received from Edgar, Wis., that Numa played with the Dorchester Aces against the Edgemoor City team, Dec. 13.

Milwaukee Teachers college officials claim playing with an outside team during the season violated a rule adopted in 1935.

Chatter Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

WE HAVE A LETTER from Harry J. Emigh, director of public recreation at Sheboygan, telling of a meeting scheduled at Manitowoc on Jan. 31, for the organization of a Fox River Valley Softball league. The circuit will be composed of amateur softballers and games will be played under lights. Anyone interested? Harry would like to see Sheboygan, Manitowoc, Green Bay, Appleton, Oshkosh and Fond du Lac in the loop.

East High school at Green Bay may ban everyone but students at the East-West game there Friday night for lack of seating room. . . . All of which prompts us to wonder whether Appleton High school's new gymnasium will seat as many people as it is claimed. . . . Last week chairs were placed along the balcony walk and the place was pretty well packed and reports are there were only about 1,400 persons in the place. . . . That's a far cry from the 2,000 it was said the gym would seat without extra facilities.

Fond du Lac high cagers had a ride home last week from Manitowoc that almost matched the one Appleton had a year ago. . . . The Cardinals tried to get into a restaurant after the game and there was only one waiter and finally gave up. . . . Ten miles out of Manitowoc the bus had radiator trouble which developed into a blown gasket and made necessary stops for water every so often.

At Taycheedah the motor sounded as if it would blow up and when the thing stopped while the driver was looking for water, the starter failed to function. . . . The driver then telephoned for a new bus but while he was away one of the boys stepped on the starter, the engine started and the squad limped into Fond du Lac at 1 a. m.

The west coast and California are shocked at reports that high school students in one district of San Francisco have been influenced to go to school in another—and compete in athletics—on the promise of free equipment, free street car rides and free ice cream cones. . . . That isn't half bad. . . . We've heard of cases in Wisconsin where families were moved from one town to another so that some youthful member could enhance the athletic glory of a high school.

A Minneapolis newspaper columnist sponsored a snow train benefit for Larry Buhler, Minnesota back last season, and who may play with the Packers next fall. Buhler, you remember was in an auto crash and has been in the hospital since Christmas and will be there another month. . . . An appeal was made on the score that Larry provided entertainment for a lot of folks while at Minnesota and the folks now had a chance to do something for him. . . . The folks did, for 1,740 turned out with Buhler's hospital fund getting 20 cents on every ticket purchased.

John Walter of the Green Bay Press-Gazette, still recuperating from the flu, got off a crack about his alma mater before he went to the hospital last week. . . . It was to the effect that he supposed Lawrence freshmen wouldn't play St. Norbert freshmen in basketball any more seeing that the Vike yearlings got beat by the Saints here a week or more ago.

Eddie Bass, who is well known hereabouts despite the fact he isn't around as often as in former years, was in the office the other day with a program from that Harry Stella-Allyn Bergner banquet at Kankakee, Ill., recently. Eddie was most proud for Kankakee is his home town, and he attended the party. As you know the boys will captain the Army and Navy football teams, respectively, next fall and were teammates at Kankakee High school.

Appleton High school students are wondering when someone is going to flood the intra mural grounds for ice skating and perhaps a hockey rink.

Merchants Meet Oils at Y Tonight

Appleton Team Upset Elm Tree Bakers Last Week at Y. M. C. A.

The Appleton Merchant basketball team, something of a sensation in the Y. M. C. A.—City league, will meet the strong Sinclair Oils of Kaukauna at 8:30 tonight at the Y. M. C. A. The Merchants last week upset the Elm Tree Bakers and thereby joined the ranking teams in the valley.

The merchants will be at full strength tonight except for Don Powers. The forwards will be Don Paulie and Williamson. Greason will be at center and Gochler, Greisch, Thoms and Volkman at the guards.

Another game at the Y tonight will show the Elm Tree Bakers and Phillips 66 team of Oshkosh.

Ben Stephens of Iowa Is Leading Big Ten Scorer

Holds Two Point Margin Over "Pick" Dehner Of Illinois

CHICAGO—(P) — A point-getting battle which goes hand in hand with the closeness of the team standings today found Ben Stephens, the Iowa star, still leading the race for individual scoring honors in the Big Ten basketball race—but only by a two point margin.

The keen-eyed Stephens had scored 56 points on 18 field goals and 20 free throws, with "Pick" Dehner, Illinois center, holding a 54 point total on 18 baskets and 18 foul shots. Stephens, a forward, at first was thought to be tied with Dehner, but it was discovered he made a field goal against Purdue that was credited erroneously to Dick Plett.

But while Dehner and Stephens may appear to be making a two-man show of the race for individual laurels, there are at least three stars in a challenging position. Jim Hull of Ohio State has 42 points, Bill Hapac of Illinois, 41, and Johnny Kundia of Minnesota, 40.

On offense, Indiana leads the field with a team total of 149 points, followed by Illinois at 146. Minnesota's defense has been tops, opponents scoring only 110 points on the Gophers. In four games Purdue has allowed 112 points.

Oshkosh at Fond du Lac.
Appleton at Manitowoc.
Sheboygan Central at Sheboygan North.

THE three leaders of the Valley conference cage race all face tricky opposition this week, and though all are favored to win there are definite possibilities present for upsets similar to the one last week in which Green Bay West lost first place rating in a beating from Sheboygan Central.

The two Green Bay schools battle it out at East's gymnasium, while

Green Bay East moved up into second position offensively with its 36 to 18 win over Sheboygan North, while Oshkosh held its second place on defense.

Scoring was well distributed through all the squads and their players last week, and as a result there were few changes in the individual scoring race. Billy Burch of West with four points to bring his total to 44 was able to hold his first place margin, while Howard Bixby of Oshkosh moved up into a tie for second place with Fraser of Appleton, each having 38 points.

Don Joseph of East was the big advance during the week, also moving into the tie for second.

Appleton Sextet Bows to Fondy, 7-1

Blue Streaks at Waupaca Thursday Night and Here Friday

Appleton hockey team in the Fox River Valley league suffered its first defeat in league play last night at Fond du Lac when it bowed, 7 to 1. The streaks will show at Waupaca Thursday night and Friday night play Fond du Lac at the Jones park rink here. Last Sunday's game at Green Bay was postponed for lack of ice.

Last night's contest at Fond du Lac featured poor ice and poor visibility because of the snow. The officiating was exactly of the best with officials and checking getting out of line.

The feature from the spectator's standpoint was a fight staged by Eddie Hildebrandt of the Appleton team and Lester of Fond du Lac. Appleton's best play was turned in by Ben Stephens of Menasha and Hildebrandt. Hildebrandt got Appleton's only score in the final period.

Fond du Lac scored twice in the first period, once in the second and four times in the third.

The lineups:

AN amateur boxing program that will show a half dozen or more lads who will seek gold gloves honors at Green Bay and various other places next month, will be staged by Oney Johnston post of the American Legion at Armory G Thursday evening. There will be seven bouts, two being windups and the show will go on at 8:30. Reserved seat tickets are on sale at the usual places.

The final bout of the evening will show hard-hitting Peter D'Amico, Milwaukee, against Earl Noel, Marinette, a leather tosser from the first going. The show has been last month against Al Robbins, Oshkosh, but he'll find Noel a different type of opponent, a lad who'll rush him every minute, keep him off balance and toss more leather than he has seen in many a night. On the other hand, if Pete lands it may be lights out for Noel.

Robbins vs. Collura
In the other windup, Al Robbins, Oshkosh, veteran of some 30 bouts, takes on Mary Collura, Milwaukee. Collura is one of the three ranking lightweight in Milwaukee and impressed in a win over Chippy Lutz here last month. He'll find the rugged Robbins a tough opponent but answers that with the remark he took things easy against Lutz. With Collura a hard puncher for a lightweight and Robbins a fighter of the windmill style, it should be a great contest. Both the windups

Edward G. Barrow Named President Of N. Y. Yankees

Business Manager and Secretary Was Real
Builder of Team

BY GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK.—(AP)—Edward G. Barrow, 71 years old and a powerful character in every way, is the new president and absolute dictator of the world champion New York Yankees.

As a fitting reward for nearly 20 years of service with the club as its secretary and business manager, Barrow was unanimously named to fill the vacancy created by the death last Friday of Colonel Jacob Ruppert, whose wealth combined with Barrow's baseball wisdom to create the Yankee empire.

Though he left no explicit instructions in the matter, the Colonel doubtless would be happy to know the men he placed in charge of the Yankees at his death had passed on complete power to his old lieutenant. The Colonel's brother, George Ruppert, declined the presidential post at the meeting of the estate's directors and assured the election of Barrow.

An active figure in baseball for more than 40 years and acknowledged to possess one of the shrewdest brains in the business, Barrow is the proper man to carry on the Yankee tradition of victory. Only in the most important matters, like for instance the sale of a Yankee property, will he consult with his three fellow trustees—George Ruppert, Frederick Grant and H. Harrison Silleck, Jr.

"I won't be any real change," he said last night. "I always made the decisions, and it was only very seldom that Colonel Ruppert questioned my judgment."

George Weiss, by Colonel Ruppert's express request, will continue as directing force of the vast Yankee farm system which he created and brought to its present perfection.

Barrow developed two of the greatest stars the game has known, Honus Wagner and Babe Ruth. He considers Wagner, whom he sold for $2,000, the best ball player he ever saw.

Handled Ruth
He managed the Babe in 1918 and 1919 when Ruth was with the Boston Red Sox, and was mainly responsible for converting Ruth from a pitcher into the greatest slugger of all outfielders. He handled the Babe with a heavy hand, and it is recorded that when they clashed it invariably was Ruth who backed down.

Barrows was born at Springfield, Ill., and in his younger days was for a time city editor of the Des Moines Leader at $35 a week. Later he was a highly successful soap salesman in Pennsylvania before turning up as manager of the Paterson, N. J., club of the Atlantic league in the middle 90's. That was where he uncovered Wagner.

"Believe me or not, we played a night game at Wilmington one night in 1906," he recalls. "It must have been one of the first. We used old-fashioned arc-lights, and you could see any day well. Anyway, the opposing pitcher, Doc Almoe, sneaked in with a torpedo nearly as big as a baseball and threw it up to Wagner. Hans hit it, and as soon as he recovered from the explosion he started after Almoe and wanted to kill him. We never did get the game started again."

As president of the Atlantic league for four years, Barrow recalls proudly that he once had John L. Sullivan, James J. Corbett and a lady pitcher named Lizzie Adair touring his circuit, playing with first one team then another. He thought up the stunt to keep the league alive during the Spanish-American war. John L. umpired and Corbett played a better-than-fair first base.

Later, Barrow was to manage Toronto, Detroit, Indianapolis and Montreal and hold down the presidency of the International league for seven years before taking over the job at Boston, where Ruppert found him and signed him up for life.

Church League To Play at 'Y'

Mt. Olive and St. Mary to Tangle in Feature
Tilt Saturday

The scene of Church league basketball games will be shifted to the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium from Armory G as the result of a meeting of league officials at the Y. M. C. A. last night. The group voted to play its games at the "Y" beginning Saturday night of this week. Second round schedule was drawn.

Final games in the first round will be played at the "Y" Saturday night with Mt. Olive and St. Mary tangle in the feature battle. The teams have some scabby grudges which they hope to settle on the basketball court and Mt. Olive has a chance to bump St. Mary into a 3-way tie for first place. St. Mary has six straight wins while Mt. Olive and St. Theresa each have five victories and one defeat.

Saturday night's schedule follows: 7:30—Evening versus Sacred Heart; 8:30—Mt. Olive versus St. Mary; 9:30—Congregation versus St. Theresa; 9:30—Basil Birth versus St. Joseph.

Wonder What Frank Frisch Is Doing, Thinking These Days?

BY EDDIE BRIETZ

For two years, now, they've managed to sign a coach to a one year contract. Its produce right now or else, down there in the watermelon belt. . . Wonder what Frank Frisch is doing and thinking about these days? Frank ought to get together with Ruth and Hornsby and hold a convention. . . Tommy Farr is off to Hot Springs for (we hope) a bit of serious training.

Most burned up citizen around New Orleans is one Mr. Howard Pollett. Two hours after signing with the Cardinals, he

Two Oakland (Calif.) archers killed a 400-pound wild boar at 20 yards with six steel-tipped arrows. . . # SOME QUESTIONS BEFORE THE HOUSE

FROM time to time questions are received which are of enough general interest to sportsmen to be reproduced. A few of these questions and their answers are given below. Jerry K. up in Wisconsin wants to know whether it is more difficult to cast with a fly rod than with a bait casting rod. That one probably cannot be answered to the satisfaction of all. The fly rod devotee will feel that his rod is the more exacting, while the bait rod anglers are sure to have their own prejudices.

In general, it may be said that it is more difficult to cast with a fly rod in a strong wind. The lighter lures used on a fly rod are difficult to control when the wind is hitting it up. Also in close quarters where there are many overhanging branches or other obstacles, it is more difficult to get a line out with a fly rod.

Bait casters will state that a fly rod caster can gauge his distance more easily than one can with the shorter rod because with the fly rod the line is whipped out until it reaches the objective and before it is allowed to drop the lure on the water. Each type of rod has a definite use, and many fish can be taken on either. It would require a wiser man than Solomon to decide, to the satisfaction of all, which is the more difficult to handle.

Snow Shoe or Ski
In somewhat the same type of question Jack W. of Peoria wants to know whether he should use snow shoes or skis when he takes a trip into the north woods this winter. There again both have certain merits and certain handicaps. It takes a lot more skill to handle skis competently than it does snow shoes. Almost anyone with a reasonable sense of balance can get around on snow shoes after a little practice.

Snow shoes are better for the novice in light snow where there is no strong crust and are easier to handle in heavy country. Hill climbing with skis is an art all by itself. On the other hand, skis permit faster travel once they are mastered and save much time and exercise for the skilled user. Even the small boys in the north make remarkable speed with skis. Then too skis are great for shooting down hills and getting the thrills of speeding over a frozen landscape. A lot of ground can be covered in a hurry on skis.

Browns for Pennant. Bill Sullivan Grins

Sarasota, Fla.—(AP)—Bill Sullivan, versatile catcher of the St. Louis Browns, is attracting considerable attention in these parts as a dexter and builder of ultra-modern homes.

Asked for comment on the coming baseball season, he said he could see little change over last year.

GRAPHIC GOLF

BY BEST BALL

STRENGTHEN THE GRIP

These winter months need not be periods of inactivity as far as progress in golf is concerned. The grip can be strengthened, corrected, made more automatic by particular attention to details in practice. It is not necessary to swing the club vigorously, indeed this at times is a difficult procedure in the confines of one's living room. The mere stroking of the club, with the attention focused on certain points will do the trick. For example the left hand should take a position well on top of the shaft so that at least two knuckles are visible to the player as he looks down. From this position it is possible to push the club back and swing it down with the greatest efficiency and power.

The point of firmest pressure in the right hand is that of forefinger and thumb while in the left, the last two fingers grip most securely. This allows a grasp on the club that is firm without being tense and pliable enough to be maintained for a long period of time without tiring. Stress these particulars and you will be better equipped to take up the game again next spring. An efficient grip is one of the essentials of low scoring.

State Will Give Nursemaid Service to Hatchery Trout

MADISON.—The Wisconsin conservation department today announced that this year it is offering expert nursemaid service to all artificially produced trout until they are thrown on their own in the wild waters of the state. Trout of all varieties are produced at state fish hatcheries and many of the small fry are then sent to cooperating organizations who hold the fish in ponds so that they can grow to larger size before being planted.

American Track and Field Supremacy Isn't in Danger

NEW YORK.—(AP)—American Track and field supremacy in international competition seems in no great danger if the all American team selected by Daniel J. Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the National Amateur Athletic Union is any criterion.

Led by the great Glenn Cunningham, outdoor and indoor national champion at 1,500 meters, the team is an especially strong one, liberally sprinkled with young and still improving college stars. It should insure Uncle Sam another strong team in the Olympics next year.

Seventeen collegians were given 21 of the 38 berths on the all star team with four of them nominated for two events each: Ben Johnson of Columbia for the 60-meter and 100-meter sprints, Fred Wolcott of Rice Institute for the 110-meter and 200-meter hurdles, Don Lash of Indiana for the 5,000-meter and cross country runs and Irv Fowles of Rhode Island state for the 35-pound weight throw and the hammer throw.

Of those who earned their positions on the team during their last year in college, Johnson, now a school teacher, and Lash, a member of the Indiana state police force, especially were expected to be the potent threats in America's bid for the Olympic track and field title at Helsinki next year.

Thirteen college athletes were placed on both the all America and the all college teams. Johnson, Ray Malott, of Stanford, John Woodruff, of Pittsburgh, Wolcott, Jack Patterson, Bill Laceyfield, Frank Ryan, Folwathshy, Pete Zagar, Nick Vukmanic and Joe Scott were included in this group.

An especially strong trio is found at 400, 600 and 800 meters with Malott, Jim Herbert of New York U., and Woodruff, the Olympic champion, named at those positions. Frank Slater of Fordham is named for 1,000 meters.

The athletic clubs, once the spawning ground for America's track champions, still dominated the distance events with Eino Pentti, Victory Dyrigall and Lou Gregory all of New York's Millrose A. A. named to the team at 10,000, 15,000 and 20,000 meters respectively.

Mel Walker, the Ohio State star, was the selection for the high jump and Bill Laceyfield, of the University of California at Los Angeles, gets Ferris' bid for the broad jump. A minor surprise was the name of Cornelius Warmerdam as the all America pole vaulter.

In last night's game the sophomores took an 8 to 6 lead at the half and were in front 14 to 10 at the end of the third quarter. Heid was high scorer for the juniors with 12 points and John Bartman got 8 for the losers.

Land of the Turks
III—Mustafa Kemal

The story of Turkey since the close of the World war is largely the story of a man. His name may be given as Mustafa, but he added to it or changed it more than once during his life, which ended late the past year.

What a man he was, and what a youth he was! During his youth, while he was learning to be a soldier, he spoke shocking words.

"The sultan," he said, "has a first duty, and the duty is to be a Turk. He should think of the Turks as more important than the Mohammedan religion."

Those words were spoken in 1898, when Mustafa was an 18-year-old student at a Turkish military school. He might have suffered for speaking them, but the men in charge of the school were proud of him as a student, and did not report him to the government. One of the instructors called him "Kemal," meaning "Perfect," and in later years he was known as "Mustafa Kemal."

In 1904, after being graduated with high honors, he became a lieutenant in the Turkish army. On that very day, however, he was placed under arrest and sent to Damascus, a city in the Syrian part of the old Turkish empire.

The disgrace of the young officer did not last, and he kept rising in rank. Yet he worked to build up a secret society in the hope of making Turkey a better country. His hopes came true, to some extent, in 1908 when a revolution gave Turkey a parliament, and took away some of the powers of the sultan.

In 1911 Mustafa Kemal became a major in the army, and two years later was made colonel. He was not in favor of having Turkey take the side of Germany in the World war, since he believed the Germans were doomed to lose.

If Turkey had stayed out of the war, it probably would not have lasted so long. As it was, Mustafa played an important part in the war. When it seemed Great Britain might capture Constantinople, he took charge of the Turkish troops defending the Dardanelles. Largely because of his skill, the British were beaten back.

At that time, a watch changed the course of history. A splinter of shell struck Mustafa and would have gone through his chest to his heart if he had not been in the way. If he had been killed, the history of Turkey, at least, would have been different.

When the World war ended, Turkey was in danger of being broken into pieces. Mustafa Kemal was ordered to make an army of Turks give up their weapons. Instead of doing that, he started a series of daring acts, which we shall take up in our next story.

Aldermen Oppose Sewer Service to Town of Menasha

Adopt Resolution Forbidding Further Out-of-City Extensions

Menasha—The Menasha council, acting in agreement with the Neenah-Menasha sewerage commission, Tuesday night passed a resolution opposing further installation of sewer service to residents of the town of Menasha and also barring extensions to the sewers already installed. The motion was passed on recommendation of the resolution and ordinance committee which had conferred with both the water and light commission and the sewerage commission.

The report declared that it never has been the policy of the water and light commission to encourage extension of service. However, according to state law the water department can be compelled to give service to both sides of the street when a street divides a city from the town. However, a higher rate can be collected from town residents.

The question of the Alex Donbrowski sewer again was raised by Alderman Scanlon, who said some sort of record should be made. Alderman Philip Michalkiewicz, veteran member of the council, said that a past council had given permission for the sewer although there is no record of it. Alderman Sauter declared that he was in favor of severing the connection.

Alderman Tuchscherer reported that the resolution committee is still studying the existing sewers and has written to the state board of health. He did not think that they could cut the service off entirely but thought that they might be able to charge for the service.

Urges Action on Project

Alderman urged action on the WPA project which will lead to codification of the city ordinances and a house survey tabulation. The project already has been approved and funds set aside for the work. The work is the first step in preparing for a full-time assessor. Alderman Earl Sauter expressed his desire for a full-time assessor and the mayor agreed with the suggestion. The city clerk was instructed to proceed with getting the project started.

Alderman Scanlon declared that a carload of WPA sewer pipe intended for Beaver Dam had been received here and suggested that it might be necessary to purchase some in order to keep the men working. The mayor said that three carloads had been promised by WPA and that buying pipe is expensive. As another carload is expected in 15 days no action was taken.

Alderman Sauter urged that work be started on the Milwaukee street sewer before high water comes. The work already scheduled includes Seventh street, London street storm sewer, Paris street and in the Third ward near the disposal plant. The mayor pointed out that the city could save money by making cement joints in the sewers but recommended caulkite for cold weather work. He demanded that the job be well done so no complaints can be made in the future.

Not Ready to Report

Alderman Walter O'Brien, who reported an investigation of the relief department, reported that his committee has not completed its report but will finish this week. As from two and a half to three hours will be necessary for the presentation of the report, Mr. O'Brien requested a special meeting of the council. Those relief clients who have registered complaints with the alderman also will appear at the meeting. A call for the special meeting will be issued later.

The tavern question once more arose to bother the aldermen when L. B. Bender petitioned the council to permit a tavern license for 227 Taylor street, a building which has been used for many years as a tavern. The owner declared that he learned of the ordinance limiting taverns after he had completed the purchase and that he had even offered three months free rent in order to secure some other business there but has been unsuccessful.

The aldermen discussed the question at some length. Previous applications for the same building have been turned down. Alderman Grode declared that the council already has violated the limiting law by permitting a building to be used as a tavern. The motion failed with Alderman Grode, Scanlon and Eckrich voting for the permit. Opposing the motion were Alderman Tuchscherer, Zeiminger, Sauter, Karrow, Michalkiewicz and O'Brien.

Fire Equipment

The purchase of four tires and tubes, booster brakes, universal nozzle, jiffy fire lighter and other equipment for the fire department was approved by the council on recommendation of the fire and police commission. The items were included in the 1939 fire department budget. The city clerk was instructed to secure prices from Menasha firms whenever possible before final action is taken.

The street committee of the Menasha council will confer with a similar committee from the Neenah council in regard to installation of a stop and go light at the intersection of Washington street, Nicolet

Post-War Tragedy Is Blamed for Rise of Adolph Hitler

U. W. Professor Gives Second of Series of Lectures

Neenah—The tragedy of the post-war era was blamed by Professor J. McMurray of the political science department of the Wisconsin university extension division for the rise of Adolph Hitler to dictator of Germany and the present European crises in the second of a series of six lectures on world affairs today at Kimberly school last night. Great Britain, France and even Russia pressed Germany too hard, and it is only logical that the German people would throw off the shackles by force and demand the right to expand, the professor said. The "revolt" came when Germany's economic situation moved into a serious crisis.

Professor McMurray contended, however, that giving Hitler more ground wouldn't prevent another war, because Hitler is part of a machinery which has to expand and then explode, and when Hitler crosses the lines of France and England then war will come. The professor said, "I'm very pessimistic about another war."

Chamberlain 'Hopes'

Prime Minister Chamberlain's wish, however, is that Germany and Russia will tangle, killing each other off and this ending the German threat as well as Communism, the political scientist said. "I don't think that will happen, however, for Hitler and Mussolini will join forces to squeeze France and then England will have to go to war to maintain the balance of power."

In his explanation of Hitler's rise, Professor McMurray said that while he isn't condoning it, he is making it understandable through historical background. For 300 years, France was the leading European nation. For 50 years after the fall of Napoleon in 1815 there was no leader, and in 1871 France was pushed down by Germany which took the lead until 1914. During this time France followed the policy of checking Germany in an effort to get back its lost territory. After the war, France again rose to power. During this time, Great Britain carried on a balance of power policy, evenly divided and threatening to go to war against the invading powers. For many years, England maintained peace.

Rose on Depression After the war England wanted France to ease the pressure on Germany in order to regain the balance of power, but France refused and England refused to sign a commitment with the French. A world-wide economic depression came and Hitler's rise resulted.

"There are other factors which resulted in Hitler's rise to dictator," the professor said. Russia, France and England don't want expansion, being satisfied with what they have. They are the "have nations," having the resources to maintain themselves. On the other hand, Germany and Italy are the "have-not" nations, and their standards of living are low and will continue to be until they can expand.

The professor said that a nation's foreign policy is not separate and distinct from its domestic policy but it is the extension of the domestic policy beyond its borders.

$11,000 Needed For Additions

Consider Plans for Increasing Size of Recreation Building

Neenah—Estimated costs for the proposed additions to the recreation building of the $140,000 swimming pool project will be $11,366, according to the plans submitted to the committee on public improvements by the general contractors, Fluor Brothers Construction company, Oshkosh, at a meeting last night at the city hall.

The committee which is headed by Alderman Andrew Andersen will report to the council at a meeting tonight at the city hall. Action probably will be taken.

Room Size Increased The general contract cost amounted to $114,039, and the additional cost involves increasing the size of the recreation building from 174 by 51 feet to 32 by 51 feet. The toilets also will be increased six feet as will the office. A room will be built above the office for storage. The increases in the sizes of the rooms will involve more foundation and heating and other incidentals.

The committee also considered hiring a resident engineer. The architects, however, are required to furnish a supervisor, but instead the city will deduct 1 1/2 per cent from the 6 per cent basic fee and furnish the supervisor. It is planned to have City Engineer A. G. Prunuske fill that job for the time being.

Neenah, Menasha Lions Hear District Governor

Neenah—Defining Lionism as a "spirit of unselfish service," A. U. Stearns, Sturgeon Bay, district governor of Lions, told members of the Neenah and Menasha Lions clubs at a noon meeting at the Valley Inn Tuesday that there were 34,000 separate activities conducted by Lions club in the nation and foreign countries for children at Christmas.

Clubs conducted 34,000 projects which couldn't have been done by individuals, he said, and that 35 of the 36 clubs in the district staged programs of some sort for children during the Christmas season.

Gheen Amuses 800 Persons as Safety Meeting Gets Underway

Neenah—Nearly 800 persons from the Twin Cities crowded Neenah High school auditorium last night, laughed with James E. Gheen, New York City, the speaker on the first of a series of four safety meetings sponsored by the Neenah and Menasha Vocational schools and industries and then left the auditorium chuckling but still thinking about safety.

While the former newspaper man had a multitude of jokes and puns with which he kept the audience of employers and employees amused, he candidly applied practically all of the anecdotes to the theme of his talk, "Playing Safe."

Gheen had most of the qualities of the "inspirational" speaker, a clever story teller, the ability of emphasizing his points as well as his jokes with gestures and facial expressions, and a quick change in voice pitch.

Interpersing his humorous lecture with considerable logic, however, Gheen urged the audience to follow what he called the "master formula for success" in attaining a successful safety movement in Neenah and Menasha.

His formula was "You can do anything you want to do in safety, providing you follow five certain laws. They are: Know what you want to do; want to do it hard enough; expect to be able to do it; persistently determine to try to do it, and make the necessary sacrifice."

Gheen, who was associated with the steel industry for 15 years, said that "you have to organize to promote safety and thus prevent accidents whether they result in loss of time or fatality or whether they are in the shop, on the streets or in the home." Accidents have been greatly reduced since the safety program has been systematized, he added.

"Not to know how to be safe," the speaker said, "is the greatest sin to do." He added to the thought, "Stupidity and safety don't coincide."

Gheen applied another philosophical quotation in his hour talk, "To him who thinks, life is a comedy, but to him who feels, life is a tragedy. If you think instead of feel about safety, life won't become a tragedy to you."

Opening the Way Speaking on safety education, Gheen said he admitted he didn't know all there was to know about safety, and he said his job was to open the way for the three speakers to follow.

Walker Is Next The next speakers will be DeLoess Walker, associate editor of Liberty magazine, who will talk on "Why We Keep on Selling School," and the Menasha High school auditorium Jan. 31; Claude Eawen, engineer for the Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc., Youngstown, O., who will discuss "Fire Prevention" at Neenah High school auditorium Feb. 14, and Dr. Preston Bradley, pastor of Peoples church, Chicago, who will talk on "Attitude and Safety Promotion," at Menasha Feb. 23.

Gheen warned the audience that while these meetings keep the employees enthused and interested and everything is going good in the plants, then is the danger time, for "you get careless and something is bound to happen."

John C. Simonich, Kimberly-Clark corporation, was chairman of the first meeting, and the Lakeview mill band, under the direction of Lester Mais, Neenah High school director, furnished music.

Graphic Club Members To Talk in Twin Cities

Neenah—Members of the Stout Institute Typographical society will visit the printing departments of Neenah and Menasha High schools this week in observance of Printing Education week. While visiting the schools, the 16 society members and advisers will give demonstrations and talks on printing. Besides the two high schools, the printers will visit the Gilbert Paper company, Banta Publishing company and the Northwestern Engraving company, Neenah.

Mayor, Aldermen Will Inspect New School Building

Jensen Tells Council He'll
"Show You Boys Something" Saturday

Menasha — Mayor W. H. Jensen will have an opportunity to point out defects in the new Menasha High school building to aldermen and members of the school board at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon. When the school question was introduced at the council meeting Tuesday night, Alderman M. J. Grode made the motion calling for the meeting at the school.

The meeting first was going to be held without the school board, but the mayor decided that he would like to have them present as well as the aldermen. Alderman Grode suggested that blue chalk be used to check all defects so that the group will know what is talking about. The mayor declared that there wouldn't be enough paper to write down all of the defects.

Mr. Grode also reported that he had visited Butte des Morts school and found no damage done by the "bow and arrow club." The mayor suggested that the situation may have been handled as it was at the city garage, where he declared everything was cleaned up before the aldermen investigated. Alderman Sauter, however, said that he had investigated the day after he heard reports of damage and found that the reports had been much exaggerated. An argument followed between the mayor and Mr. Sauter as to who said what at a previous council meeting.

Tuchschere Opposed
Alderman Tuchschere was the only one to vote against holding the meeting. He declared that he had seen most of the defects and said that once the council had viewed them he felt they'd be satisfied there was no need for any further meetings. He referred to the chip-ped stone which Mayor Jensen has discussed as "very inconsequential."

The mayor declared that he could point out places where the taxpayers paid for stone trim that never has been installed. No excuses for absence will be permitted for the meeting Saturday. Special notice of the meeting will be sent to the aldermen through the police department. The mayor offered to pay the expense of sending the notices.

The mayor seemed pleased at the prospect of the meeting and said, "I'll be there. I'll paint those fellows green." He also said, "I'll show you boys something and referred to the meeting as "the piece of my life." A report of the meeting will be given at a future council meeting.

The school question arose when the mayor referred to a newspaper article that indicated a report on the meeting of the school board and the council would be given at the council session last night. "I'd like to have that report," the mayor declared.

Gives Report
Alderman Tuchschere said he thought that no report was necessary because the meeting had been reported in the newspapers. When the mayor asked for a report, Mr. Tuchschere volunteered to give it.

He said that facts brought out at the meeting showed that the board was entirely within its rights in the purchase of the sound system and went on to discuss the $2,500 surplus of which $2,600 has been set aside to meet obligations.

The mayor interrupted to say that he agreed with Alderman Grode that he has no right to put on a show in the council chambers and that he was more than anxious to quit talking about the school, but that he was only fighting for what the people paid for.

Mr. Tuchschere requested the privilege of completing his report without interruption. He said that the board was within its legal rights and commented, "I don't see how they've done as good a job as they have, harassed as they have been." He also pointed out that R. S. Ihlenfeldt had been sent by John Callahan, state superintendent of public education, and that Mr. Ihlenfeldt had heard all of the discussion and had no objections to offer but had agreed that the board was within its rights.

Reads Statute
The mayor had Walter J. Dougherty, city clerk, read a section of the statutes which states that the council has the right to impose reasonable regulations on the city treasurer in reference to money paid out for the school board. Mr. Tuchschere admitted that that was the law, but pointed out that the council has the power, and that the council has not seen any necessity for asking such a regulation.

"I'm asking the council now if they don't see fit," the mayor declared and Tuchschere answered, "I for one don't." The mayor then said, "You're on the school board. You went out there, referring to the meeting last Wednesday night, which the seven aldermen did go to. In hope of settling the question, Alderman Grode then suggested the meeting Saturday. In the discussion which followed there was some argument as to who wanted to cut the school budget and who wanted to raise the tax rate to $3.70. Mr. Grode then made his suggestion in the form of motion.

Lawrence Zelinski Is Named Head of Twin City C. Y. O.

First Issue of Group
Newspaper Distributed at Meeting

Menasha — Lawrence Zelinski was elected president of the Twin City C. Y. O. at the first regular election held by the organization Tuesday night at St. Margaret Mary church hall in Neenah. Richard Lemberg was named vice president. Cecile Walbrun was elected secretary and Gerald Andersen was named treasurer.

Ted Suess, who has been acting as chairman of the C. Y. O. since it was founded last fall, declined a nomination to office. He was elected as the architect. Alderman Grode suggested that blue chalk be used to check all defects so that the group will know what is talking about. The mayor declared that there wouldn't be enough paper to write down all of the defects.

Mr. Grode also reported that he had visited Butte des Morts school and found no damage done by the "bow and arrow club." The mayor suggested that the situation may have been handled as it was at the city garage, where he declared everything was cleaned up before the aldermen investigated. Alderman Sauter, however, said that he had investigated the day after he heard reports of damage and found that the reports had been much exaggerated. Tuchschere Opposed
Alderman Tuchschere was the only one to vote against holding the meeting. He declared that he had seen most of the defects and said that once the council had viewed them he felt they'd be satisfied there was no need for any further meetings. He referred to the chip-ped stone which Mayor Jensen has discussed as "very inconsequential."

The mayor declared that he could point out places where the taxpayers paid for stone trim that never has been installed. No excuses for absence will be permitted for the meeting Saturday. Special notice of the meeting will be sent to the aldermen through the police department. The mayor offered to pay the expense of sending the notices.

The mayor seemed pleased at the prospect of the meeting and said, "I'll be there. I'll paint those fellows green." He also said, "I'll show you boys something and referred to the meeting as "the piece of my life." A report of the meeting will be given at a future council meeting.

The school question arose when the mayor referred to a newspaper article that indicated a report on the meeting of the school board and the council would be given at the council session last night. "I'd like to have that report," the mayor declared.

Gives Report
Alderman Tuchschere said he thought that no report was necessary because the meeting had been reported in the newspapers. When the mayor asked for a report, Mr. Tuchschere volunteered to give it.

He said that facts brought out at the meeting showed that the board was entirely within its rights in the purchase of the sound system and went on to discuss the $2,500 surplus of which $2,600 has been set aside to meet obligations.

The mayor interrupted to say that he agreed with Alderman Grode that he has no right to put on a show in the council chambers and that he was more than anxious to quit talking about the school, but that he was only fighting for what the people paid for.

Mr. Tuchschere requested the privilege of completing his report without interruption. He said that the board was within its legal rights and commented, "I don't see how they've done as good a job as they have, harassed as they have been." He also pointed out that R. S. Ihlenfeldt had been sent by John Callahan, state superintendent of public education, and that Mr. Ihlenfeldt had heard all of the discussion and had no objections to offer but had agreed that the board was within its rights.

Reads Statute
The mayor had Walter J. Dougherty, city clerk, read a section of the statutes which states that the council has the right to impose reasonable regulations on the city treasurer in reference to money paid out for the school board. Mr. Tuchschere admitted that that was the law, but pointed out that the council has the power, and that the council has not seen any necessity for asking such a regulation.

"I'm asking the council now if they don't see fit," the mayor declared and Tuchschere answered, "I for one don't." The mayor then said, "You're on the school board. You went out there, referring to the meeting last Wednesday night, which the seven aldermen did go to. In hope of settling the question, Alderman Grode then suggested the meeting Saturday. In the discussion which followed there was some argument as to who wanted to cut the school budget and who wanted to raise the tax rate to $3.70. Mr. Grode then made his suggestion in the form of motion.

Two are Initiated Into Twin City Commandery

Menasha — Two candidates were initiated into the Twin City commandery, Knights Templars, at a meeting last night at the Masonic temple following a 6:30 dinner with Lady Sir Knights.

The ladies played cards following the meeting with Mrs. Herman Peters and Mrs. Fred Rasmussen winning honors in schafkopf, and Mrs. Lucy Horton and Mrs. V. A. Gehm, Appleton, winning in bridge. Seven members from Appleton attended the meeting.

Movie Land Its People and Products

By Jimmie Fidler

Hollywood — I think someone ought to have a heart-to-heart talk with Marlene Dietrich, for she's making the same mistake that's doomed so many other tottering stars to complete oblivion. She lost her Paramount contract because her pictures weren't swelling studio dividends. She hasn't worked for a year, and that's long enough for any star to fade from the memories of millions of fans.

Fidler — There's just one reason why Marlene isn't working — she asks too big a salary. Looking over the poor box office records of her Paramount productions, producers are afraid to meet her terms, which, I understand, are approximately $125,000 a picture. It seems to me that she would be much wiser to admit that there's reason to doubt her popularity, cut her price in half and get back before the cameras NOW — without giving theatre-goers any more time to forget her existence. I suppose she reasons that once her salary is cut, she would lose prestige. Perhaps she would — but not at one-tenth the rate she is losing it by continued idleness. Furthermore, the idleness precludes the possibility of that one smash hit, which would instantly put her back in the big money bracket.

Why expect the producer to do all the gambling? Marlene certainly has as much to gain as he can have. He wants a profitable picture; she wants a new lease on professional life. She should be willing to take her share of the hazard. And, after all, not even our money-crunching stars can call half of a $125,000 wage chicken feed.

ODD-FORMATION: Akin Tamiroff is an ad at the local movie sign language. Norma Foster owns a book store. The average major-studio director shoots between 350,000 and 450,000 feet of film in order to get the 10,000 feet which comprises the finished feature-length picture. Nicknames: Wayne Morris' mother-in-law calls him "Slug." That mild-mannered little Donald Meek used to be the "top man" in a team of vaudeville acrobats.

Edgar Kennedy, one of the original Keystone Kops, landed his first job with Mack Sennett by offering to whip any three men on the lot — and making good on his boast. Hermes Fach, RKO dance director, is a dead ringer for Fred Astaire.

Holderby Is Named to Serve on Committees
Menasha — J. M. Holderby, superintendent of the Neenah-Menasha sewage disposal plant, has been named to two committees of the Central States Sewage Works association. Holderby has been named chairman for the 1939 annual convention of the association which will be held in Chicago. The association held its 1938 convention in the Twin Cities with over 200 delegates from four states present.

Holderby also has been named to serve on the committee on standardization of qualifications for sewage plant operators. The committee will attempt to work out uniform standards to apply to sewage plant operators. In the past plants often have failed to give satisfactory service because unqualified men have had charge.

School Teachers Will Discuss Study Habits
Neenah — A panel discussion on a program for the improvement of study habits will be conducted at a meeting of Neenah High school teachers at 7:30 tonight in the library. Teachers in charge of the discussion are Floyd Cummings, Ivan Williams, Miss Edna Mae Harris, Miss Charlotte Peters, Robert Ozzanne, Marvin Olsen and Miss Vida E. Smith.

Travelog, 1-Act Comedy Will Feature Who's New Club Meet
Neenah — A travelog, "Cruising America" by Mrs. A. Gross and a 1-act comedy, "Stuffed Owls" will feature the program at the 2:30 Thursday afternoon meeting of the Who's New Club in Twin City Y. W. C. A.

The comedy will include a cast of Mrs. Ida Catlin as Mrs. Potter, Porter, president of the Plainsville Minerva Club, Mrs. Robert Rodgers as Mrs. Foster, club vice-president, Mrs. Charles Bailar as Miss Lovejoy, secretary, Mrs. William J. Karow as chairman of the tea committee, Mrs. Fred Yaley as Mrs. Mullen, honored guest and Mrs. Andrew Hopfensperger as Sally Hobbs, another guest.

Tea hostesses for the afternoon will be Mrs. Theodore Perry, chairman, Mrs. Joseph Test, Mrs. O. Reinke, Mrs. J. Gundlach, Mrs. P. Robinson, Mrs. J. Cowling and Mrs. Dean Andersen.

Ladies society, Circle 3 will meet with Mrs. L. E. Ozzanne, 117 Caroline street, at 2:30 Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Fred Schiebler and Mrs. Steve Davis will be assisting hostesses. Mrs. M. G. Hoyman will conduct devotions and Mrs. E. E. Lampert will present a reading.

The senior Evangelical League of Christian Endeavor of First Evangelical church will hold a social at the home of Robert Weideman 300 Abbey avenue, Menasha, at 7:30 Friday evening.

Ladies society of Immanuel Lutheran church will conduct a food sale Saturday morning, beginning at 11 o'clock, in Weidens grocery. Mrs. Arthur Haas will be chairman.

Neenah Eagle Auxiliary will entertain at another card party in the tournament series Thursday afternoon in Eagle hall. Games will be played before and after cards.

The Misses Jane and Hazel Gottfried, Church street, entertained at a luncheon and post-nuptial shower Tuesday at the Hearthstone. Tea room in Appleton in honor of their sister, Mrs. Alva Patten who was recently married. Cottie provided entertainment with prizes awarded Mrs. Patten and Donna Littlefield.

ERROLL FLYNN—swashbuckling hero of "Captain Blood" and "Robin Hood" gets a chance to do his hardest riding and hottest fighting in Warner's melodrama of pioneer days in the West, "Dodge City." Another agreeable item is the fact that the lovely Olivia de Havilland is again his heroine. "Dodge City" is filmed in technicolor.

and a good enough dancer to double for him in any routine. That realistic frost you see on movie window panes is a combination of beer and epsom salts. Tough-guy Charlie Bickford's greatest pride is his skill as a dahlia grower. The Number One and Number Two idols of juvenile England are Mickey Mouse and Buck Jones.

For a major production, the property man must procure and keep tab on an average of 5000 separate items. Robert Montgomery once worked as a stoker on a tramp freighter. Don't feel too sorry for the actors when you see them working in rain scenes—usually the rain is falling only on the area between them and the cameras. Add Licorice drop addict: Lew Ayres. Harold Lloyd's generally conceded to be Hollywood's richest star.

Another one of those gaggling feuds is under way, this time with Jack Haley and Bert Lahr—the Tin Woodman and The Cowardly Lion, respectively, in "The Wizard of Oz"—as participants. If started when Jack bribed the studio headress, who was marcelling the "Lion's" shaggy hair, to short-circuit the curler. Bert got a shock that made him break all high-jump records. Haley was today's victim. He fell asleep on the set and Bert took advantage of the opportunity. When Jack awoke he found his "tin" suit papered with tomato can labels.

A few weeks ago Joan Blondell bought a new hat—one of those insane little gadgets that perch jauntily over the wearer's left ear. Dick Powell and six-year-old Norman Scott Barnes, as disapproving as all men but more tactful than most, said nothing. But every morning for the next two weeks, they came to breakfast with tiny paper hats clamped atop their heads by means of rubber bands. At the end of the two weeks, Joan—who had matched their silence—solemnly threw her new hat in the fireplace. Dick and Norma promptly followed suit, completely. Joan reigns again in the Powell household.

Charley Eldridge, a 75-year-old veteran of the Indian wars, is working as technical advisor on the Wanger epic, "Stage Coach." Yesterday a scene called for the use of a mountain field gun, a technical known to all army men as a "jackass battery." "Hey," yelled Charlie to the assistant property man, who's fresh from Broadway, "bring over that jackass battery, will you?" Props looked knowing. "You ain't kidding me, he retorted. "I'm an easterner, but I know jackasses don't run on batteries."

County Average Of Able-Bodied On Relief Is Low

Percentages in Neighboring Areas Above Figures For State as Whole

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison — Outagamie county had less of a percentage of able-bodied persons on relief in a representative recent month than the average for the state as a whole, while most of its neighbors had more, a study by the state public welfare department showed today.

While about 33.7 per cent of all Wisconsin relief recipients on the rolls in the month of September were classified by experts as "unemployable," Outagamie county was just under the line with 31.8 per cent, while Brown was nearer the state average with 33.3 per cent.

Here are the percentage figures for other counties in the north-eastern Wisconsin area:

|           |      |
|-----------|------|
| Calumet   | 41.1 |
| Shawano   | 43.2 |
| Waupaca   | 60.8 |
| Manitowoc | 30.7 |
| Winnebago | 40.2 |

Valley Better Off

The department also published a study of September relief loads showing that at that time Fox river valley cities over 10,000 population were in a considerably more favorable relief situation than the rest of the urban population of the state.

While 7 per cent of the population of cities of over 10,000 was receiving relief in that month, Appleton showed only 2.2 per cent, Green Bay 4.1 per cent, Manitowoc 4.0 per cent, Menasha 2 per cent, Neenah 1.3 per cent, and Oshkosh 4.9 per cent.

Highest were Milwaukee, South Milwaukee, and Kenosha, where more than nine per cent of the city's inhabitants were receiving public aid, in the form of general relief.

Slight Advance Is Recorded in Steel Industry

Improvement Is Slow to Be Translated Into Into Orders

Cleveland—Improvement in steel inquiries is slow to be translated into orders, and the initial post-holiday rebound in production has been arrested. Operations advanced only 1-point to 52 per cent last week, according to magazine STEEL.

Railroad legislation by congress still is awaited, but in the meantime several roads are proceeding with maintenance and improvement programs. Rail orders include 12,500 tons for the St. Louis-San Francisco and 8000 tons for the New York, New Haven and Hartford. Union Pacific is in the market for 100,000 tons of rails and accessories and 15 locomotives, while the Southern Pacific is inquiring for 40 locomotives and is expected to buy 25,000 tons of rails.

Railroad Order Pennsylvania railroad has ordered 15 dining cars and 12 coaches. Lehigh & New England is inquiring for 100 hopper cars.

Automobile production spurted last week, a gain of 10,000 units reflecting removal of holiday influences the preceding two weeks. The 88,925 cars and trucks assembled was 32 per cent larger than output a year ago. Ford contributed a large part of the gain, increasing from 17,740 units to 21,750. General Motors expanded from 32,230 to 35,540; Chrysler dropped from 21,610 to 20,860; other makers stepped up from 5105 to 8775.

Divergent Trends Divergent trends were shown in steelmaking in various districts last week. Pittsburgh operations were unchanged at 44 per cent, but Chicago was off 4 points at 49 per cent. Cleveland advanced 25 points to 565 per cent, Youngstown was up 5 points at 55 per cent and New England increased 5 points to 75 per cent.

These gains largely were offset by reductions of 7 points to 65 per cent at Cincinnati, 5.5 points to 40 per cent at St. Louis and 4 points to 37 per cent at Detroit. Other districts were unchanged, including eastern Pennsylvania at 34 per cent, Wheeling at 64, Buffalo at 44 and Birmingham at 77.

Does Your Breath Broadcast— "I WEAR FALSE TEETH?"

Play Safe—Be Sure—Use Polident

People who wear plates or bridges often suffer from a special kind of bad breath. Dentists call it—"denture breath."

You won't know if you have it—but it can spoil your happiness. Friends will shudder—people avoid you! And the worst of it is that ordinary brushing may not prevent it. Neither will mouth washes. For the odor comes from a mucin-scum that collects on plates and bridges. This scum soaks up germs and decay bacteria and causes a vile odor that you cannot detect. One thing that definitely will stop "denture breath" is Polident! This new brushless cleanser has won the approval of thousands of dentists. Users say it's a blessing. Polident not only purifies
